The War Today

By GUY RHOADES

WAREHOUSES BURNED

German night raiders brought extensive damage to central London today, causing warehouse fires in the vicinity of the famous St. Paul's Cathedral, the Mansion House and the Guild Hall, while details of British reprisals on Germany were incomplete.

The number of civilian casualties in the metropolis was expected to be around that of the last two days, when a total of more than 500 were killed and about 2,700 badly injured. Four short daylight raids today appeared to have caused little damage.

The German raids, conducted in poor weather, appeared indiscriminate, and belief was expressed they were designed mainly to affect public morale and hurt as many people as possible. The effect on public morale was good. People were tired and mad, but stubborn.

LESS THAN ANTICIPATED

Actually the number of casualties and the extent of the damage have been far less than authorities expected.

Londoners were led to expect casualties of all kinds, running as high as 100,000, during the massed raids, and fire authorities estimated they would have to deal with as many as 5,000 blazes in a single raid. They were prepared to cope with such hazards, and the fact they have not had to do so is hardly likely to scare them.

The famous buildings in the path of last night's bombers escaped damage, although firemen were forced to battle continuously for eight hours to extinguish the flames. Some docks also were hit.

Lord Woolton, Minister of Food, said the damage, though "annoying," was important neither from the standpoint of feeding London nor the nation. Some dislocation of traffic occurred, but it is always possible to use other British ports to unload imports.

CONCENTRATED FIRE

The long night raid was ended with a terrific outburst of anti-aircraft fire such as watchers had not seen before, and speculation arose as to whether its occurrence might not have indicated an experiment in some new type of concentrated fire to drive the raiders off.

The Admiralty disclosed British and neutral merchant ship losses for the first year of the war amounted to 2,771,353 tons, while German and Italian losses were 1,236,000 tons. Britain, however, ended the first year of the war with more tonnage than she possessed at the beginning, with new construction and ships of formerly neutral nations seized or surrendered.

WHEAT ESTIMATED AT 561,104,000

OTTAWA (CP)—A wheat crop of about 561,104,000 bushels, highest production figure since 1923, was predicted today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in a bulletin reporting the first estimate of the production of principal grain crops, hay and clover, and the condition of late-sown crops.

This would be 71,481,000 bushels larger than the 1939 wheat crop, the bureau reported. Of the 1940 crop total, 534,000,000 bushels were produced in the prairie provinces.

The present wheat crop is only slightly smaller than the record production of 566,726,000 bushels in 1928, when 544,598,000 bushels were harvested in the prairies. The 1940 crop of 534,000,000 bushels in the prairie provinces is distributed as follows: Manitoba, 71,000,000 bushels; Saskatchewan, 260,000,000 bushels; and Alberta, 203,000,000 bushels.

TELFORD WILL RUN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Lyle Telford announced today he will be a candidate for re-election at the civic polls next December 11 as an independent candidate. The mayor is the first to announce his candidacy for the forthcoming city election.

Ambassador Released

MOSCOW (AP)—Alexei Terentiev, Russian ambassador to Turkey, has been "released from his duties." Tass the Soviet news agency, announced today. There was no announcement as to why Terentiev was released.

Bombs Probe Nazi Caches

British plane crews told how acres of the heavy mountain woodlands of Germany's Black Forest—the famed "schwarzwald"—were ablaze after a surprise attack in which they struck to destroy concealed armament factories and munitions dumps. The Black Forest scene above shows the typically dense woodlands, ever shrouded in mysterious shadows, scene of many Grimm fairy tales and inspiration for countless weird peasant legends and superstitions.

Final Bulletins

Empire to Hear Churchill Tomorrow

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill will broadcast to the nation at 6 p.m. Wednesday (9 a.m., P.S.T.), it was announced tonight.

(In Toronto the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will broadcast the Churchill speech would be carried on its national network.)

2 R.C.A.F. Deaths

BELLEVEILLE, Ont. (CP)—Flight Lieut. Fred L. Sims of Belleville, Ont., Flying Officer William R. Swanson of California, were killed today when the Royal Canadian Air Force Finch trainer in which they were flying crashed into a muddy swamp at Huff's Island, four miles south of here.

According to Ridley Anderson, an eyewitness, the plane was looping the loop and the engine stalled. It went into a tail spin and despite efforts of the pilot to flatten out near the ground the plane crashed into the mud.

BRITAIN TO RETURN ALL ENEMY BLOWS

LONDON (CP)—A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, referring to the acquisition of 50 United States destroyers by the Royal Navy, said today "no accession of strength was ever more welcome to the Admiralty than those ships."

"With the accession of naval strength which I see coming in every week," Mr. Alexander said, "there is an ever-increasing toll in our actions against the U-boats."

The First Lord declared the German air raids have been "a great and sore trial for large numbers of our civilian population—now as much in the front line as almost any part of our fighting services."

"The spirit and example of our merchant seamen clearly are being emulated by the civilian population," he added. "It will carry us through and the enemy will get back all he gives on land and sea."

Italian Casualties

ROME (AP)—August casualty totals published today brought Italian dead and missing for the year to 2,876.

Another London Night of Bombing

LONDON (CP)—German planes renewed their bombing of London tonight. A single plane opened the attack by dropping a stick of six bombs in one London area. Two heavy bomb hits were heard in another area.

Citizens made ready for their fourth consecutive night in air raid shelters.

The Press Association announced that "many bodies" had been recovered from an east London school wrecked by a direct hit.

New Air Fighter

FARMINGDALE, N.Y. (AP)—A new air fighter for the United States army, built to fly above high-altitude bombers, is ready for manufacture.

It is a new type of interceptor pursuit ship, designed to fly at altitudes over 35,000 feet to combat bombers which remain at 25,000 to 30,000 feet.

Aid for Homeless

LONDON (CP)—Malcolm MacDonald, Minister of Health, appealed tonight to London householders to take in families made homeless by German bombs and to lend furniture and bedding to other victims.

He warned in a broadcast that the number of persons without homes would increase steadily.

Carol Eyes U.S.

LUGANO, Switzerland (AP)—Refused permission to settle in France, ex-king Carol of Rumania is trying to decide between Portugal and the United States as his place of exile; a member of his suite said tonight.

Refusal of the Vichy government to allow him to live on the French Riviera was believed here to have been influenced by German hostility to the former monarch.

Cool in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The first severe cool wave of the season routed summer throughout the midlands today.

A chill air mass from Canada caused sub-freezing weather in three states and lowered temperatures to 15 to 18 degrees below normal in other parts of the central region.

5 Raid Alarms in London Tons of Bombs on Hamburg, Berlin

LONDON (CP)—The fifth air raid warning since morning sounded in the London area at 8:11 p.m.

Earlier wave after wave of German air invaders had sent Londoners underground four times in daylight but up to early evening there had been no renewal of the devastating Nazi bombings.

The fourth alarm wailed at 5:55 p.m. as the gathering dusk brought anew the threat of night raids which have kept the city's millions in shelters each night since Saturday.

That alarm, like its predecessors of today, was comparatively brief, the all-clear signal coming 31 minutes later.

The evening rush hour again was disrupted by the alarms. Many buses shortened their routes and long queues waited at every stopping point.

Utility services were restricted over several areas of London.

Teashops managed to make tea for their customers, but sometimes it was rationed at one cup per person. Only cold food was available in parts of the city, but it was expected full service would be restored within a few hours.

The German planes over Britain today were believed to be scouts sent to determine the damage done in the preceding three nights of attack. British fighter planes turned them back.

Other Nazi planes were reported over Wales late today.

Out of Shelters For Few Minutes

The fourth alarm came only 15 minutes after the all-clear signal had ended the third at 5:41 p.m. Those who had hurried for shelter barely had time to reach the surface before plunging below again.

One flight of reconnaissance bombers was fought off in a quick battle high above the centre of the city while sirens wailed just after noon. The second alarm was sounded at 4 p.m. and lasted 23 minutes.

Sounds of machine gun fire overhead marked the lunchtime raid, but no planes were heard or seen during the second alarm.

R.A.F. Pounds Nazi-held Points

Showing the R.A.F. is giving the enemy blow for blow, the Air Ministry in a communique tonight told how planes dropped "tons of high explosives and many incendiary bombs" on the Hamburg naval dockyards and attacked an important suburban power station in Brussels.

The Berlin attack started about midnight in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire. The bombs caused "heavy explosions."

"Last night R.A.F. bombers continued their attack on military objectives in German and enemy-occupied Holland, Belgium and France."

"Among targets attacked were lighting installations at Berlin, shipyards at Bremen and Hamburg, docks at Kiel and Wilhelmshaven (naval bases) and Wismar, good yards at Krefeld and Brunsel, factories at Essen and Barnstorf, rail communications and several enemy airdromes.

"Other forces of our bombers attacked shipping and barge concentrations (reportedly preparing for an attempt by troops to invade England). In the ports of Ostend, Calais and Boulogne, and against gun emplacements at Cap Gris Nez (France)."

"Three of our aircraft did not return."

British warplanes bombed the outskirts of Berlin and the Wesermünde industrial area in northern Germany today in raids which Nazi authorities characterized as "mild retaliation" for Nazi raids on London, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Nazis in Shelters For 43 Minutes

Berliners were driven to underground shelters for 43 minutes before dawn as the British raiders visited the metropolitan area. A number of apartment houses on the northern outskirts of the capital were damaged by high explosive bombs, authorities said.

No casualties were reported immediately, and German officials claimed the planes failed to penetrate to the centre of the city. But heavy anti-aircraft fire was audible and flames dropped by the raiders cast a weird light over the northern end of Berlin as they floated down through low clouds, said the Associated Press dispatch.

In later reports it was claimed only one British plane actually flew over the suburbs, circling the area twice to drop its bombs.

It was claimed most of the raiders which visited the Wesermünde region near Bremerhaven were driven off by anti-aircraft fire, and there was no mention of any damage.

Germans Admit Apartments Damaged

The German high command's communique today said: "British planes last night again bombed places in northern Germany which were far from any military targets. Scattered apartment houses were more or less severely damaged in the neighborhood of Berlin and other cities."

After last night's raids the City, that ancient London area of winding lanes and headquarters of famous financial institutions, carried on as usual today, although when workers came to business many of them late—grimy, red-eyed firemen were still toiling on smouldering wreckage strewn over one area blasted by German bombs.

Stenographers and black-coated Stock Exchange clerks, who had to walk from central London due to lack of buses in the city, found one noted ally piled high with broken glass. Soldiers asked them to walk in the middle of the road away from the danger of falling masonry. Miles of fire hose snaked over the street. A high-explosive bomb had crashed on the corner of a tall bank and brought masonry tumbling to block the street.

Life went on as usual at Canadian banks, where a number of windows were shattered by an explosion. None of the staff were working at that time, however. Canada House, Canadian military headquarters, Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railway offices, and other Canadian rendezvous in the west end were all intact.

Transportation—jams affected many Londoners. Transportation delays caused light attendance at the Stock Exchange, with scarcely any business transacted, but war loans remained steady at overnight closing levels.

R.A.F. sources today said about 150 German bombers took part in last night's long raid on London and the bombs dropped included "several very heavy ones."

RALSTON TO SPEAK HERE ON THURSDAY

Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, will fly to Victoria tomorrow evening and remain in the city the following day to inspect defences and address a joint meeting of the Canadian and Rotary Clubs in the Empress Hotel.

The luncheon, scheduled to start at 12:15, will be Mr. Ralston's first speaking engagement in Victoria, and is expected to create wide interest.

No subject has been announced for the address, but the minister is expected to deal with the various phases of the Canadian war effort.

CALGARY (CP)—Members of the Canadian Active Service Force and nonpermanent militia units were inspected today by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence.

$400,000 Pop. Factory

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of the Royal Trust Company announced today that preliminary construction work on a planned $400,000 soft drink factory in the Kitsilano district would begin almost immediately if the city council agrees to amend the zoning bylaws to permit construction. Kitsilano is at present reserved as a multiple dwelling area.

Half-way Mark In War Loan

Canada's second war loan had practically reached the half-way mark by noon today with subscriptions totaling $141,000,000 out of the $300,000,000 objective.

This was announced in Ottawa. The bulk of it came from large subscriptions and as yet the applications of small investors have not made themselves felt heavily in the main total.

H. W. G. Henderson, Victoria member of the British Columbia regional committee, said that in this city applications appear to be coming in at about the same rate as the first loan which was over-subscribed in a short time.

"The small investors appear to be digging up every dime they can spare," he said. Several financial houses said the response was on a par with the first loan.

Officials in Ottawa gave out a statement saying:

"While reports of the target national subscriptions continue to be fairly satisfactory, the smaller subscribers have not yet responded to the offering in sufficient volume to meet the need. Private subscriptions are coming in at a slower rate than was the case in the first war loan."

Subscriptions of over $100,000 were announced for Canada as follows:

British Columbia—Pacific Mills Ltd., Vancouver, $150,000; David Spencer Ltd., Vancouver, $100,000; Prairies—Saskatchewan Pool Elevators Ltd., Moose Jaw, $100,000; Province of Alberta treasury department trust accounts, $250,000; City of Edmonton sinking and pension funds, $100,000; province of Alberta Workmen's Compensation Board, $100,000. Ltd., $100,000; La Societe Des Artisans Canadiens Francais, $200,000; Dominion Textile Co. Ltd., $500,000; Dominion Oil Cloth and Linoleum Co. Ltd., $200,000; Distillers Corp., Seagrams Ltd., and subsidiaries, $500,000; and Bronfman interests and B. Aaron, $500,000. Ontario—McIntyre-Porcupine Mines Ltd., Toronto, $1,000,000; General Motors of Canada Ltd., Oshawa, $1,000,000; Crown Life Insurance Co., $750,000; F. W. Woolworth and Co. Ltd., $500,000; H. J. Heinz Co., $100,000; Sigma Mines, Quebec, Ltd., $200,000; Dome Mines Ltd., $200,000; Northern Life Assurance Co. of Canada, London, Ont., $250,000; National Trust Co. Ltd., Toronto, $250,000.

REFUGEES LAND AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—A British liner arrived here today with 630 German-Jewish refugees and 200 killed Scottish children, brought to safety from Britain.

The total passenger list numbered 930.

The Jewish Aid Committee in London paid the fares of most of the refugees. The National Co-ordinating Committee for Jewish refugees here is assuming responsibility for them and will direct them to new homes. All the children will go to homes of relatives or friends.

ALL HAVE VISAS

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department officials said today that all refugees brought to the United States today on a British liner obtained visas in the regular manner and no exception was made in the case of 135 men formerly interned in an alien camp in Surrey, England.

Department officials stressed that government regulations had not been relaxed to allow Britain to send interned aliens or prisoners to this country.

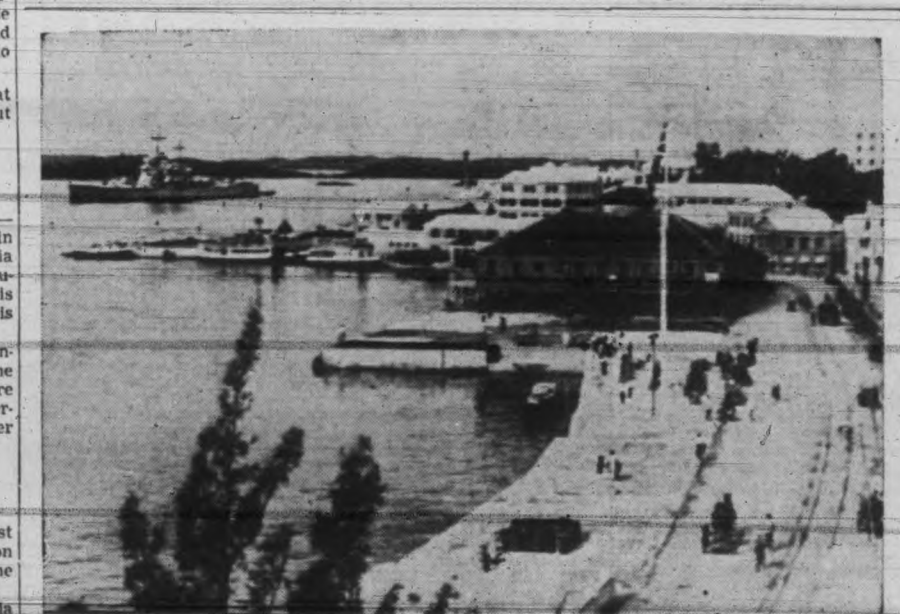

CANADIANS PROUD OF THEIR NAVY

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT (CP)—Speaking under the shadow of a high-angle anti-aircraft gun, Hon. Angus L. MacDonald, associate Defence Minister for Naval Services, today addressed the ship's company of the battle-scarred Canadian destroyer Restigouche.

"There is nothing in the war that can give Canada more pride than the conduct of the Canadian Navy," he said to the officers and sailors of the warship that has been away for weeks on the other side of the Atlantic, facing enemy submarine and bomber action. "I want to say on behalf of the government of Canada, your conduct has been excellent. You have been through many dangerous spots and though censorship does not permit relating them, we are proud of the way you have carried on."

Halifax Rents Studied

HALIFAX (CP)—An investigation into rising rents here has been conducted by James M. MacDonald of the Canadian wartime prices and trade board, it was learned today. Mr. MacDonald arrived here unannounced two weeks ago to study wholesale and retail prices.

Privateer's Output

Privateer Mine's production for August was: Ore milled, 2,760 tons; gold produced, 2,429 oz.; gold per ton of ore milled, 88 oz.; value of gold produced (at $35 per ounce), $85,015.

Development during August was satisfactory and extremely high grade ore was encountered in the 1,002 raise on the No. 2 vein. This raise, now up 76 feet, has averaged about 12 ounces of gold per ton over widths varying from 7 to 11 inches.

The crosscut on the 1,100 level cut the No. 2 vein on August 23 and drifting has proceeded east and west from the crosscut since then. The vein here is strong and of good grade. D. S. Tait, president of the company report, thirty-five feet sampled to date in the east drift averaged 2.75 oz. gold to the ton over an average width of 10 inches. This ore is not under the ore shoot on the 1,000 level. It will require about 60 feet additional drifting east to come under the main ore shoot on the levels above.

Horror of Bombings

MARGATE, England (CP) — The Achibury said today that he hoped he never had to spend another two nights in London like those just past when he drove through the streets during raids. "You can hardly imagine what it is to be continually bombed — not at intervals, but every minute — never knowing when or where the next bomb is going to fall."

R.A.F. Takes Toll On Norway Coast

LONDON (CP) — An Admiralty communiqué today said: "Yesterday Skuas (dive bombers) attacked an enemy supply ship of about 2,500 tons in Haugesund and scored a hit. South of Bergen a tanker of about 2,500 tons was attacked and damaged by near misses. "A German military hut camp in the Bergen area was also attacked by bombs, and hits were obtained. Three of the huts were completely destroyed and others were damaged. "Our aircraft encountered intense opposition from enemy aircraft batteries and one Skua is missing."

"This operation followed closely upon other offensive operations of the fleet air arm over the Norwegian coast, recent instances of which follow: "On September 8 Skuas and Swordfish planes left two enemy supply ships sinking and abandoned by their crews. All our aircraft returned safely. "On August 18, Skuas set fire to oil tanks in the Bergen area and to a motor patrol vessel, and also scored direct hits on a 2,000-ton supply ship. All our aircraft returned safely. "On August 8, Skuas set fire to the oil depot at Dolvik. All our aircraft returned safely. (A statement said reconnaissance flights had confirmed that two of the three tanks of the Dolvik depot, attacked by naval bombers August 8, were destroyed, while the third tank and pipelines were severely damaged.)

"On August 1 Skuas successfully bombed a wireless station and a supply ship of 4,000 tons. The latter was left in a sinking condition and abandoned by her crew. All our aircraft returned safely. "Many offensive operations were carried out previously to this."

"These repeated offensive actions are adding considerably to the enemy's difficulties in an area where sea transport and oil supplies are vital."

DOCTORS TO SEND CHILDREN HERE

NELSON (CP) — A plan to bring the children of British doctors to Canada as wards of Canadian physicians is being pushed forward and will be set in operation as soon as a canvass of Canadian doctors is completed. It was announced today by Dr. T. C. Routley of Toronto, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association.

Dr. Routley disclosed the plan yesterday before the British Columbia Medical Association in convention here. The Toronto physician said a survey of Canadian doctors showed they could receive up to 1,500 British children. The information was cable to Britain, and an exchange of messages resulted.

The plan was set aside for some time due to convey difficulties, but is now being pushed forward, Dr. Routley said. Canadian doctors who can take children from Britain are now being canvassed for particulars regarding age and sex of the children they desire. Dr. Routley said that when this canvass is completed, the movement of doctors' children from Britain can begin.

Dr. Routley said Dominion and provincial governments would cooperate in the scheme.

J. M. Wilson, Ex-Senator, Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Joseph Marcell Wilson, who resigned as a Liberal member of the Senate earlier this year, died at his home here today.

Mr. Wilson, a member of the Senate since 1911, dropped out as a result of ill-health. The 79-year-old former senator was prominent in financial circles in Quebec province. He was president of the Banque Canadienne Nationale until forced to retire in 1933 because of poor health.

He made his entry into business life when he started with the grocery, wine and spirits firm of Dufresne and Mongenais at the age of 17. In time Mr. Wilson became proprietor of the firm after it had become Bolvin, Wilson and Company.

Born on a farm on Ile d'Azard, near here, he was of French and Scottish blood, and was a Roman Catholic.

British Morale Remains High

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

WASHINGTON (AP) — London's suffering citizenry might be cheered to know that the mounting ferocity of the Nazi air war has failed thus far to shake the grim optimism with which neutral military men as well as their own leaders view the outlook for Britain.

United States authorities who said privately last month that the odds were even or slightly favored Britain are unwilling yet to shorten them. From available evidence the defending Royal Air Force remains formidable. It appears to be inflicting blows that hurt more than Berlin is willing to admit. British morale continues high.

More important to Britain's outlook than the destruction of huge areas of London are the preparations to provide the R.A.F. with adequate bases beyond London to replace those damaged in the southeast.

FROM UNDERGROUND

It is from these camouflaged, gun-ringed and presumably underground bases that the defending fighters appear now to be taking off in greatest numbers to combat raiders. It is from them that the British bombers make their nightly forays against Reich cities.

Whereas the cables are crowded with eyewitness descriptions of the havoc wrought in London, the results of a three-hour raid on Hamburg are limited to the characteristic terse admission in the German communiqué of "small" damage.

Optimism with regard to the R.A.F. is based likewise on indications that the first reinforcements of pilots are forthcoming from the Empire Training Scheme centered in Canada, and by Prime Minister Churchill's declaration that thus far Britain has been forced to employ a smaller proportion of its air defence forces than her foe.

As long as the R.A.F. remains in action, as long as the 1,000 or more anti-aircraft guns protecting the metropolitan area keep firing and the balloon barrages remain aloft, London is a long way from the fate of helpless Rotterdam, Warsaw and Barcelona.

(Commenting on last night's raid on Berlin, the Berliner Zeitung boasted London will share the fate of Warsaw and Rotterdam if Prime Minister Churchill continues to "send his pirates over Germany nightly.")

Superstition Fails

WELLS, B.C. (CP) — Search was continued this afternoon in nearby Jack o'Clubs Lake for the body of Fred J. Barnard, 35, after the invocation of ancient superstitions failed to locate the spot where he is believed to have drowned August 21.

As police sought to recover the body with grappling irons, a local resident holding a robber in his arms was rowed back and forth across the lake. He said the rooster would crow at the spot where the body could be found, but the bird remained silent.

War Contracts Let To Firms in B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Munitions Minister C. D. Howe announced today 1,368 contracts with a value of $5,750,352 were awarded in the week ended August 31.

Two large contracts were included in the list, one for $1,103,435 for aircraft supplies and awarded to the Ontario Hughes Owens Co. Ltd., Ottawa, and one to the Anaconda American Brass Ltd. of New Toronto, Ont., of $1,076,582 for munitions. Contracts included: Barrack stores—Restmore Manufacturing Co. Ltd., Vancouver, $23,250. Naval stores—Dominion Bridge Co. Ltd., Vancouver, $12,228; Ross and Howard Iron Works Co. Ltd., Vancouver, $11,175.

Biggest Crop Yet In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta will harvest the largest crop in its history this year, with a higher average yield per acre and with exceptional quality, the provincial department of agriculture reported today in its first crop estimate of the year.

The report warned that the estimated yields of 203,000,000 bushels of wheat, 114,000,000 bushels of oats and 34,500,000 bushels of barley may have to be revised upward. The yields of wheat and barley are the highest on record, said the report, while the oats yield will be the third highest.

TO DEVELOP HOLDINGS

TORONTO (CP) — Northwest Company Limited, wholly-owned subsidiary of Imperial Oil Limited, will commence development of large holdings of West Petroleum Limited on the Blood Indian Reserve near Lethbridge, Alta. It was announced today. West Petroleum Limited, Toronto, is an Ontario incorporated company.

Minister Seeks Wheat Solution

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister J. A. MacKinnon said today he would leave tonight for the prairie provinces to obtain first-hand information on the problem facing the government in connection with methods of advancing cash against farm-stored wheat. Outlining the efforts made during the past 10 days and consultations with prairie province governments, bankers and others to work out a satisfactory plan, Mr. MacKinnon said "there is an inclination by the provinces to put the full load on the doorstep of the Dominion."

Canadian chartered banks and elevator companies had refused to agree to a plan of advancing loans on the security of farm-stored grain, with a limited federal guarantee, the minister said, and the provincial governments had declined, so far, to become joint guarantors with the Dominion in providing funds.

Whatever solution is worked out and the minister expressed confidence there would be a solution, he declared there would be "no experimenting with wheat-backed currency or inflation through the issuance of additional currency" as had been suggested to him from a number of sources.

A record carry-over from the last crop year, coupled with a close to 500,000,000-bushel harvest this fall created such a storage problem that prairie producers will be unable to deliver much more than half their fall harvest until there is a heavy export movement.

Fire Penalty

SMITHERS, B.C. (CP) — Maxime Pierre was convicted by Justice of the Peace H. V. Davies here of setting a fire without a permit, in contravention of the Forestry Act, and was given a suspended sentence of six months.

Canadian Bases For U.S. Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A possible hint that defence sites in Canada would be made available to the United States has come from Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York following a meeting of the Canadian-American joint defence board.

The chairman of the board's U.S. section said he was not free to disclose what had been discussed, but that the board's task is "to utilize the gifts of nature for the defence of our two countries."

"I am confident," he added, "that by the time we have finished our job the dictators of Europe will think twice, perhaps half a dozen times, before attempting to attack the western hemisphere."

There has been speculation that a United States naval base on the west coast of Canada, and possibly a highway from the United States to Alaska through British Columbia, figured in the conversations.

Any such deal, it was believed, might involve payments to Canada in the form of military supplies.

GERMAN CLAIMS

BERLIN (AP) — The German high command issued the following communiqué Tuesday night:

"In the evening of September 9, a British convoy out of Dover was subjected to fire by German coastal batteries. The convoy was broken up. Four ships steamed back to Dover and two to Deal. A damaged steamer also was towed there. The eighth ship of the convoy remained behind under a heavy cloud of smoke.

"The shooting was broken up by darkness at 8.40 p.m. (There was no immediate comment from British sources on these claims.)

"A submarine commanded by Lieut.-Capt. (Guenther) Frenn, who on September 8 reported sinking 33,400 tons during one operation, now reports that this operation resulted in the sinking of a total of six (defensively) armed enemy merchantmen totaling 40,250 tons. Additional steamers were damaged. Another submarine destroyed several armed enemy merchantmen totaling 15,500 tons. One German auxiliary cruiser took a neutral steamer as a prize in the region around England blockaded by Germany.

(These claims have not been confirmed by British sources.)

Bright Uniforms

WINNIPEG (CP) — School cadets at the Robert H. Smith school here will turn out for drill in brightly-colored uniforms voluntarily purchased by the boys themselves. R. B. U.S. Wheat Put at 783,560,000 Bushels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States agriculture department forecast this year's corn crop today at 2,297,186,000 bushels and total wheat production at 783,560,000 bushels, based on September 1 conditions.

Indications a month ago were for 2,248,246,000 bushels of corn and a total wheat crop of 760,623,000 bushels.

Corn production last year was 2,619,130,000 bushels. The 10-year, 1929-38, average production was 2,299,342,000 bushels.

Last year's total wheat crop was 754,971,000 bushels and the 10-year average, 754,685,000 bushels.

Republicans Win in Maine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maine Republicans won an unbroken series of victories yesterday in all the major contests of the first state-wide election of the United States' presidential year, and party leaders hailed the performance as an omen for national successes in November.

By pluralities exceeding in most cases those registered in 1936 and 1938, the "down east" Republicans elected a U.S. senator, a governor and three members of the House of Representatives.

On the basis of all but complete returns, Representative Ralph O. Brewster had a lead of approximately 45,000 votes over former Democratic Governor Louis J. Brann in the Senate race. Sumner Sewall, successful gubernatorial candidate, was ahead by more than 70,000 votes.

Representative Joe Martin, the party's national chairman, said the Maine returns meant "without any doubt" the election of Wendell Willkie, Senator Charles McNary and a Republican majority in the House of Representatives in November.

"The Maine election definitely heralds the end of the Roosevelt administration with all its inefficiency, bungling, extravagance and radicalism."

Counterfeiter Hunted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver and Royal Canadian Mounted Police were searching for a suspected counterfeiter this afternoon following the discovery of counterfeiting paraphernalia in a Robson Street rooming house. The equipment included engraving cuts and drafting instruments, but the man who occupied the room had left.

Griesbach in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Major Gen. William A. Griesbach, Inspector-general of the Canadian army in western Canada, arrived here today on a tour of inspection of troops under his authority. He will be in British Columbia about two weeks.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, will arrive in Vancouver tonight and accompany the general on his inspection of defences.

Frost on Prairies

WINNIPEG (CP) — Light to heavy frosts were reported all over Saskatchewan and in most parts of Manitoba last night, but indications today were that damage to grain crops would not be great.

Harvesting in the areas affected is well advanced and it was believed that damage would be confined to coarse grains.

Argue Sentence To Peter Hartnell

The argument that the Crown, having secured a conviction, could not be aggrieved and was therefore not in a position to appeal, was advanced by J. O. Gill, counsel for Peter George Hartnell, as the crown's appeal against sentence of three months imposed on Hartnell under Defence of Canada Regulations opened today in County Court.

Judge H. H. Shandley reserved decision on the point and ordered the appeal to proceed.

Developing his contention the crown had no right of appeal when it had secured a conviction in its favor, Mr. Gill stated such right would exist in the event of an acquittal.

Citing authorities on the point, he stated the crown was always aggrieved where there had been a "failure of justice." That phrase, he said, had a specific legal import. In the case at bar there had been no failure, since a conviction had been reached and sentence imposed, the latter at the magistrate's discretion.

Mr. Gill asked how the merits of the case could be gone into in the appeal when they had already been studied and a verdict of guilty reached.

He quoted the authority on summary convictions, stating an appeal should be taken by the convicted.

The crown's action in seeking the appeal was abhorrent to the traditions of British justice, Mr. Gill declared, noting such procedure put a man in jeopardy, tried him and then placed him in jeopardy again following conviction.

Alan Maclean, for the prosecution, stated section 749 of the Criminal Code gave the prosecutor or the complainant the right to appeal. He declared the crown could be aggrieved in cases where there was a conviction. The crown, he said, was always aggrieved where there was a miscarriage or failure of justice.

"In this case there has been a failure of justice in the inadequacy of sentence," he stated.

He stated the court had power and jurisdiction before remarking that the sentence was part of the conviction and afforded grounds for appeal.

Italian Claims

ROME (AP) — The text of Tuesday's Italian high command communiqué:

"In the eastern Mediterranean our aviation is particularly active and has made violent bombing attacks on the port of Jaffa, in Palestine, and on the railroad between Alexandria and Mersa Matruh. During the first action, port equipment and important deposits were hit, starting vast fires. During the second, the railroad works were seriously damaged. A train was hit squarely and blew up. (No reports on these raids had yet been issued by the British authorities.)

"In the north, aviation sought out, scattered, bombed and machine-gunned enemy tent encampments and motor columns. The enemy suffered considerable losses, especially at Bir Seifez. "Enemy aviation made several raids on localities in Cremona, causing altogether the death of one person and injuries to four and unimportant damage."

Service Regrets McGee Death

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert W. Service, who wrote of the hardships of the north country 40 years ago, expressed sorrow yesterday at the death of Sam McGee, whose name he obtained from a bank ledger in Whitehorse, Y.T., and made famous in the legendary poem "The Cremation of Sam McGee."

McGee, who went into the Yukon in the gold rush days of '98 and worked as a copper miner and at road building, died at Beiseker, Alta.

Service, now residing in Vancouver, described how he happened to write of the cremation of McGee "by the margin of Lake LeBarge." He picked up the "cremation" idea from a story that was told at a dinner he attended one night in Whitehorse, in 1906.

Working in the Whitehorse bank, Service came across the name of Sam McGee in the ledger. It rhymed well, so he used it in the poem, not knowing he would ever meet the real Sam McGee.

But he did, one year after the book containing the poem was published and McGee had become a legendary figure of the north, forced to carry documents to prove his identity.

"We met one day in Whitehorse," said Service. "McGee came up to me and said 'you used my name in one of your poems, and looked embarrassed. I was embarrassed too and said 'did I?' McGee walked away without another word."

"I regret very much the death of Sam McGee—a very worthy man."

McGee found it difficult to convince people that he was Service's "cremated" Sam McGee. When he visited the Yukon two years ago he found a two-room shack he built in Whitehorse in 1900 turned into a tea-room. A sign invited passersby to come in and "have a cup of tea with the ghost of Sam McGee."

In the north they still tell the story of an officer on a Yukon River boat who slipped tourist passengers what he said were "some of the ashes of Sam McGee" as souvenirs, if they would promise to say nothing about it.

Comparing notes later the passengers would find 20 or 30 of them had some of "Sam McGee's ashes." The river boat officer is believed to have passed out hundreds of pounds of the ashes in a single tourist season.

There is no evidence that the hardness or softness of ordinary drinking water has any appreciable influence on arthritis, gallstones, or intestinal disorders, says a writer in Hygeia, health magazine.

Many Fires Battled After 9-hour Bombing

London Has Traffic Jams After Night Raids

LONDON (CP)—Hundreds of thousands of Londoners sent to shelters by air raid sirens spent periods in shelters this afternoon, following a third weary night of German bombing that spread ruined and fire-blackened patches from the east end shipping and industrial areas to the financial heart of their city.

The drone of many engines could be heard in the sky during the first alarm, lasting 25 minutes, shortly before 1 p.m.

In a brief battle over the London area, fought so high observers could not see it, British fighter planes turned away the reconnaissance and bomber planes which had occasioned the alarm. But machine gun and cannon fire were heard in central London.

Thousands of firemen, air raid wardens, and gunners—the front fighters of this war—worked at their posts after a night during which, authoritative quarters said, 150 German bombers dropped some "very heavy" demolition bombs on the centre of the city.

Bombs Destroy Large Building

The German night raiders smashed down one huge business building in the financial district and blew the top floors off another, set great conflagrations which endangered but did not damage St. Paul's Cathedral and the Guildhall, hit two hospitals, including a maternity hospital, shook Fleet Street, London's "Newspaper Row," with their tremendous blasts and battled with British fighters right over the Houses of Parliament — the "Mother of Parliaments."

A member of the staff of St. Paul's said today: "We have not had a window cracked." He added that when the bombs started fires, "happily the wind was in a direction that blew the flames away."

No Mistakes in Strategy Wanted

London Papers Demand No Mercy for Germans

LONDON (CP)—A call is being sounded here for a merciless "all-out" war by Great Britain, and military leaders are being urged to brush aside in their sky war against Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy any ethics associated with the old school tie.

John Gordon of the Sunday Express writes that "in my view there is no way of instilling sense and sanity into Germans at this moment except by killing them." He adds, the Germans are beyond missionary work, that they have "gone back to the jungle age."

German People Brought on War

"It was the German people, not Hitler alone, who made this war. They made it a war not of soldiers against soldiers, but of people against people. As they made it so they shall have it. They who boasted that they were without mercy, deserve no mercy. Justice is all they need. Let us see that justice is what they get."

The writer says that when Germany begins to whine under the whipping by the Royal Air Force "I hope there will be no sentimental nonsense this time about mercy for the poor, deluded Germans who never really wanted the war, but were just misled."

"For every bomb dropped on the soil of Britain, we shall, before this war is finished, drop 10 bombs into the heart of Germany."

Throng Detour On Way to Work

In spite of the terrific blasting, millions of tired workmen, clerks and businessmen struggled back to their daily tasks this morning through traffic jams created by necessary rerouting of buses and taxis.

London's great army of workers in the heart of the city paused sometimes to look at ruined buildings, then moved doggedly on. The Germans also battered the coast near Dover last night and early today with long-range artillery from near Cap Gris-Nez, in France, killing four persons, but drawing a reply from British naval rifles mounted ashore and British bombers.

In the city hundreds of firemen were engaged. They ignored the falling bombs and crashing debris as they battled for eight hours without a break to check the flames.

This warfar was not one-way, British emphasized. Royal Air Force quarters said their bomber squadrons again had carried out operations over Germany and attacked targets in Berlin.

Lord Woolton, Minister of Food, described the amount of damage done to food supplies during the week-end German raids on London as "annoying, but entirely unimportant," either in regard to Britain's or London's food supplies.

A bulletin said the raiders last night showered the bombs at random "without any distinction of objectives," and abandoning "all pretence" of confining the attacks to military targets.

The Bank of London Bridge, the big Law Courts, and the financial district all are within a few blocks in the mid-city area shaken by the thunderous explosions.

Water Towers Used In Fighting Fires

Bombs which fell in the neighborhood of St. Paul's struck warehouses, setting them aflame. Large forces of firemen worked feverishly to prevent the blaze from spreading. They were aided by the auxiliary fire service and fought the fires with the aid of water towers.

The undamaged cathedral loomed sombre and ghostlike through the red-stained smoke as dawn brought the all-clear wall from the sirens. Flames and sparks still shot upward.

Another famous church, St. Mary-le-Bow—behind St. Paul's—was said to be out of danger after long hours of anxiety.

Outlying sections and densely populated residential districts also were bombed heavily. The communiqué said no count of the dead and injured in the 9 hour and 2 minute attack was possible immediately, but that 285 were killed and 1,400 injured seriously in the Sunday night attack. That brought the bombing toll for the first two days to 592 and approximately 2,700 badly hurt.

There were attacks, too, outside, of London—in northwestern England and rural districts of the southwest and in the Midlands, Wales and Scotland—but little damage was reported there.

Great Barrage Surprises Enemy

The bombardment finally was broken off just before dawn by a tremendous surprise anti-aircraft barrage which beat back the last of the raiders.

There was no indication whether the fierce barrage in the flame-tinged sky over the central part of London was the answer to German night raiding which a high Royal Air Force authority said was being developed.

The din of anti-aircraft fire had echoed through the city all night, but it was not until the intensified shell-burst barrier just before dawn that the raiders were forced back entirely from the central city area.

Following heavy losses inflicted on him by our fighters and the repulse of his attacks yesterday evening, today's communiqué from the Air Ministry said, "the enemy has now thrown off all pretence of confining himself to military targets."

The 800 to 1,000-pound bombs ferried over by big four-motor German planes were dumped into the centre of the city, wrecking some midtown office buildings and damaging centuries-old landmarks.

honoring the rule-of-school-and-club?

R.A.F.'s Bravery Declared Unexcelled

"They are a kindly and generous and appreciative people. They would not criticize British gentlemen who are fighting for them. . . . They would not ask the obvious question—whether the Air Ministry approves of British pilots inviting Nazi defences to shoot first before they are bombed, or warning Krupp to be on the alert because they are about to be attacked."

"They are humbly content to know that the Royal Air Force is fighting for them with a bravery unexcelled even their own."

"But they may wonder whether the people who issued this unctuous statement are conducting war or sport."

"We are still too much obsessed with the defence of our coastline. We should be fighting the Battle of Britain in Germany. That is the only place where the knock-out blow can get home. Parries are all very well, but it is the solar plexus punch that ends the fight."

Dental Officer Has Narrow Escape

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Major I. Hamilton of Ottawa is just as glad duty detained him from his dental laboratory when a squadron of Nazi air raiders pounced out of the clouds and unloaded their cargo of bombs on the residential district where he had been billeted.

He was about to leave for his nearby "digs" when a call came through which required immediate attention. A few minutes later the air raid siren sounded, followed by the pulsating drone of hostile aircraft and the crash of high explosive bombs.

Already late for an appointment, he rushed off towards his billet as soon as the "all clear" was given.

He found the raiders had been there before him and the house was a smouldering heap of ruins. One of the bombs had pierced the roof and exploded in the centre of the room which had been occupied by Major Hamilton.

Child Ship to Sail From Foreign Port

NEW YORK (AP) — Marshall Field, president of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, said here a ship had been obtained to sail to a foreign port, probably Irish, to bring children to the United States.

"There is as yet no assurance of safe conduct for the vessel from the German government," Field said, "but the committee's move is intended as a test case to ascertain whether or not such conduct will be granted."

The ship was not identified.

One hundred and twenty persons were reported buried in the wreckage of 20 houses shattered in a single district. A number of casualties were reported at a maternity hospital.

A home for the aged, a London County Council housing estate, and numerous workmen's cottages in the East End were hit.

Bombing Less Steady Than on Previous Nights

Although the attack at times reached the intensity of the raids the previous two nights, it appeared to lack the sustained pattern which they had maintained. The bombing was less steady and indications were that fewer big fires were started and fewer bombs were dropped.

Even after the all clear signal had brought weary Londoners out of their shelters, the Battle of Britain went on with a thunderous cross-channel duel by long range guns resuming the shelling started the night before.

The heavy firing by British coastal cannon on the southeast coast chalk cliffs and German "little Berthas" on Cap Gris-Nez near Calais, France, brought the threat of an attempted invasion back into sharper focus in the battle picture.

Observers here have often said the English coast still in the real front line.

Incendiaries Used By Enemy as Guides

The third of the big night raids on London followed the same pattern adopted by the Nazi attackers since they switched from daylight bombings and concentrated on the capital.

A few planes led the way, dropping incendiary bombs. The rest followed, their racks loaded with powerful explosives, guided through the darkness and smoke to their targets by the glare of the fires.

There was no great mass attack. Instead they came in relays, sometimes singly, diving at the Thames-side targets through the centre of London and circling over the outlying sections.

Once the raiders and defence planes mixed in a dogfight high over the Houses of Parliament and one huge four-motor German bomber crashed to the ground.

Five tremendous explosions were heard in the Fleet Street section, centre for London news-paper offices.

One street car was hurled from the tracks, but there were no casualties. Experienced in all-night bombings, most Londoners went directly to shelters at the first alarm, resigned to another night of wakeful waiting.

Fires broke out in the northwest. One roaring salvo of bombs hurled debris high into the air. Wharves and warehouses along the Thames again were bombed heavily.

Hospitals Bombed In Central London

Bombs dropped on sanctuaries for the aged. Two hospitals were hit in central London and one bomb shattered the roof and windows of a children's hospital and started a fire on the top floor. No patients were in the wing hit.

Thirty mothers and 20 babies had a narrow escape when bombs fell around a maternity hospital. All the patients were moved from the building within 15 minutes after a call for help was sounded.

"Fathers who later came to the hospital as quickly as they could on receiving the news were in fact far more upset than the women," said a rescue worker.

Nurses and porters formed a bucket brigade at the children's hospital.

"Everybody was magnificent," a staff physician asserted.

Firemen Work Without Pause

The raiders started fire after fire, but the firemen worked without a let-up to localize the flames. From a city roof-top, the reflected glow of the flames could be seen in all directions. The crackle from the nearby fires mingled with the drone of bombers.

Several persons were feared killed in a northeast district when high explosive reduced six or seven houses to debris.

A bomb tore through three floors to the terrace of a building in central London. At another point a bomb hit the roadway, killing a man and a woman.

Subway service was maintained on all lines except in a few sections. Bus, tram and trolley-bus services were operating with a few curtailments and some diversions of routes.

A bomb falling 300 yards from one of London's biggest hotels broke the windows in the restaurant, but did not damage the building itself. Guests and members of the staff, safe in a shelter 20 feet below ground, heard the thud and felt the vibration of the explosion.

The bodies of the three women and two men, trapped in a cellar of a building in southwest London which received a direct hit, were taken from the debris at noon.

A rescue squad worked to get to five members of another family trapped in the ruins of a four-story building in southeast London.

Germans Claim Coasts Attacked

BERLIN (AP)—The German high command's communiqué today said:

"German battle and pursuit plane units continued rolling reprisal attacks against war-essential targets in the British capital. Port facilities, docks, gas works, electricity works, storehouses and oil tanks were bombed with all calibres. Fires visible from a long distance lighted the way for the flying units. Air raids were directed against several port facilities on the English west coast and Scottish east coast."

"The foe's losses yesterday were 44 planes, of which two were downed by anti-aircraft, one by navy artillery and the rest in air fights. Twenty-one of our planes are missing."

In air battles over Britain yesterday 47 German aircraft were shot down; 13 British planes were lost.

"During hazy weather the night of September 9-10, some light enemy vessels reared the French coast and aimlessly fired several salvos which hit the hinterland without damage. The enemy was driven away by the fire of our naval artillery."

(This action had not yet been reported on by the British.)

INTERNEES REACH AUSTRALIAN CAMP

SYDNEY, Australia (CP-Reuters)—A large number of German and Italian internees have arrived here by ship, guarded by the first British troops to be seen in Australia since the start of the war.

The lieutenant-colonel commanding the troops, who were loudly cheered as they debarked, had little to say about the voyage.

"We had our moments," was his dry comment.

It was learned later an attempt was made to torpedo the ship during the voyage while it was in a convoy with ships evacuating children. It was also attacked from the air, but there was no damage.

Three internees died during the voyage. One committed suicide by jumping overboard into a heavy sea. The other two died from natural causes.

Ill-feeling several times broke out between Germans and Italians.

Nazi authorities had arranged for each German to receive £1 on disembarking. Two refused the money and asked that it be given to the British Spitfire fund.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1940

London

OUR NEIGHBORS ON THE SOUTH ARE getting large doses of new pictorial proof of the damage the high-explosive and incendiary bomb can do to a city of bricks and mortar and wood and concrete and steel. All the important daily newspapers are devoting a good deal of space to illustrations which depict the destruction wrought by Nazi airmen in and around London since last Saturday. To the millions of citizens of the United States—to the thousands in this country who still treasure memories of the great city of peaceful days—who know the British metropolis and are never tired of talking of its history and its charm, these pictures will bring an acute pang.

These pictures to which we refer, of course, constitute news of first-rate importance; but they do more than illustrate the dispatches sent over the cables by a small army of competent United States newspaper correspondents. They lift the progress of the Battle of Britain completely clear of propaganda. Every picture of some famous landmark that is now a tangled mass of wreckage, every pile of blackened debris, every recital of harrowing experience, the daily estimate of killed and injured, must be bringing home to our neighbors some idea of what it means to dispute the despoiler's claim to world domination. Yet what is going on in London and in other communities of Britain is the life-and-death struggle of a nation which has pledged itself to defend to the last drop of its blood and the last penny of its material treasure the way of life which is dearer to us in Canada and to our good friends in the United States than anything else in the world.

These pictures, moreover, serve other purposes. They reveal the mentality of the man who has never even seen London, the man whose "senseless ambitions" have led him to believe he can conquer the world and impose totalitarianism on it so firmly that it will last 1,000 years—the man who is convinced that all that goes by the name of decency in human associations is a sign of weakness and decadence, that it is merely the shrine at which only effete nations worship. But these pictures also will surely suggest to the American people that this madman of Berlin thinks they will take this indiscriminate pulverization of material London, this wanton killing of hundreds of innocent people, as a matter to be regretted but about which they can do nothing. This is where Adolf Hitler makes his most serious mistake. If he had tried to convert these remaining indifferent onlookers in the United States to a new conception of the moving events in and over London, their immediate meaning and implication for the rest of the world, he could not have chosen a more effective medium than Goering's brutal Luftwaffe.

And our friends across the border object, as do we Canadians, to any attempt to discount intelligence. Not that the accelerated tempo of Adolf Hitler's aerial Blitzkrieg on Britain was required to impress upon the minds of the average American citizen that his and her own way of life is in deadly peril. But when they contemplate this pictorial evidence of the lengths to which the head of the Nazi oligarchy has gone in his determination to remove liberty and freedom of thought from the earth, they may cast about them to see what more they can do to limit the circumstances permit them to do to limit the destructive terror which Germany is applying to the world's largest city—the great and resolute capital of embattled democracy in the Old World.

No Room for Him Here

IT HAS BEEN SUGGESTED THAT EX-King Carol may decide to take refuge in Canada, and that Canada, out of the sympathy of her heart, might extend him a welcome. If there is anything at all in this report, and if the government at Ottawa has been approached, or is likely to be approached, on the subject, it is fervently to be hoped that this former ruler of the kingdom of Rumania will be told flatly that this Dominion is nothing like so hard up for population that it is obliged to open its doors to men of his type. When everything has been taken into consideration—the ex-monarch's political dilemma in Bucharest, Rumania's vulnerable strategic position and her relationship with the axis and revisionist powers—the unpleasant fact remains that Carol's conduct in the last few months has been based on the unpleasant mixture of double-dealing with his own people and intrigue with the nations which forced down his throat the famous Vienna award. Always in the background, of course, is an unsavory chapter of personal behaviour which has established him in a category revolting to every decent human being. And if the ex-monarch will not understand plain English—which he does—Canada should tell him in the language of his principal totalitarian mentor that his presence in this country is "Strengstens Verboten."

Burglar stops to cook himself a meal before fleeing victim's house, says news item. Another version of grabbing a bite on the fly.

Demanding Action Now

TWO YEARS AGO AND UNTIL THE eve of war last September those Canadian and United States newspapers which found space to discuss the proposed Alaska Highway at length, or with any degree of seriousness, almost invariably treated it from the purely academic point of view. They admitted the project had its merits; United States automobilists would naturally thrill to the allure of a road all the way from the Mexican border to that romantic territory separated from the homeland by British Columbia. But through all the transparency of arguments which approved the idea of the undertaking could be detected the bogey of expense. Who was to pay for it? Would it pay for outlay and upkeep? Would not civil aviation and the development of aerial travel in the not distant future revolutionize means of transportation to such an extent as to do away with much of the present-day expensive road-building? There seemed to be no end to fantastic reasons for supposedly intelligent delay. Then Ottawa and Washington acted, established a joint international fact-finding commission, adopted a plan which always gets results. And much information now is in the hands of the Canadian and United States governments.

In recent weeks, moreover, the Alaska Highway is no longer spoken of merely as a path over which automobilists could travel with ease to their scenic Mecca in the north-land—as a desirable but, perhaps, too costly a luxury for either Canada or even the United States to contemplate without long and grave consideration. Those staid journals which discussed the original scheme from their Olympian heights, as if it were an issue which quite properly could be bequeathed to posterity for its consideration, are now figuratively out of breath in their impatience to get on with the job while there is yet time to have the road ready for military or any other use which the potential blueprint of coming events already has all too menacingly delineated. This is how Mr. Willis Thornton, a widely-read American journalist, sees the matter:

"There is no longer any valid reason for delay—the building of the overland highway to Alaska should be started at once! For years this project has languished. There were Canadian fears that United States influence might be too heavy along such a highway—that it meant some sacrifice of sovereignty. There were American fears that it meant dumping money into a project which would principally benefit Canada. Neither fear means anything today. Canada and the United States have submerged all last lingering distrusts in mutual understanding of a mutual problem of defence. And the need for safeguarding Alaska by development as well as by military establishments is now clear."

Most of the money spent on military preparedness, of course, has no value in enriching civilian life. Guns and bombing planes and shells are manufactured because no alternative has been found. But theirs is a value belonging solely to war. Which brings us to a repetition of the argument we have advanced in these columns dozens of times in the last year or so—we can put it now in a slightly different way—that the Alaska Highway will be of the highest civilian value in addition to the new estimate of its merit or necessity. And what is $40,000,000 or $50,000,000 these days, when billions roll off the tongue with the greatest of ease?

Time Will Tell

HANS FRANK IS AN OPTIMIST; HE IS the German governor of Poland, and he has told the Poles that the swastika "will fly over this land forever." He means that the German campaign was a naked conquest, and that Poland is now absorbed into Germany—that Poland has ceased to exist.

It is not given to us to read the future. All we can do is to guess in the dim light of reflections from the past. Poland has ceased to exist before. It has been wiped from the map of Europe as a child cleans a slate.

Poland vanished, but the Poles remained. They never became Austrians, or Russians. Will they ever become Germans? Surely Herr Hitler's own racial ideas do not argue that they will. Forever, Herr Frank, is a long time.

DO HOUSEWIVES "WORK"?

From Ottawa Citizen

The most embarrassing contretemps of National Registration so far reported comes from a community in Alberta, where a lady on Question 14 answered "housewife" and the registrar insisted on putting it down as "domestic worker," there being in his opinion no such job as housewife.

As the lady had already answered "married" on Question 4, she fears that there's a clear implication in the recorded answer to No. 14 that she isn't living with her husband, but doing domestic service for someone else! She gives vent to her indignation with this conclusion:

"Pride in my position as a housewife has often served to buoy me up when the flood of mere domestic work threatened to overwhelm me, and I think Canada could have managed to win the war without depriving me of this support. As a domestic worker I feel that I am not going to be such a thorough-going patriot as I have been up until now as a Canadian housewife."

Ma'am, don't go back on the country over a little thing like that. The smartly of a registrar was probably just an ignorant young chap with no wife to guide him.

CREAT DAYS

THESE ARE GOOD DAYS for politicians. The ones at Ottawa have to work hard; it is true, but this business of war is simple compared with the desperate frustration of the depression years. You can do anything. You have all power and if you are doing it to forward the war, nobody criticizes. Everybody is behind you.

For the provincial politicians this is positive bliss. All problems are postponed. Issues which seemed grave enough to blow off the dome across James Bay are now utterly forgotten. Great causes, such as health insurance, which shook the very fibre of the commonwealth, have been put in storage. And, as all our energy and all our money must go into the war, the most patriotic thing a provincial government can do is to do nothing whatever. This is the time to run for the Legislature. This is the time to become a great man painlessly.

TIED TITAN

MR. ABERHART, the tired Titan of the plains, struggling under the too-great orb of his fate, tells a luncheon club in Victoria that he is thinking of retiring now, and in British Columbia. It is a sad and solemn thought that the $25 a month long promised in Alberta to all loyal citizens, as their natural pension, is not ready for the man who promised it, when he needs and deserves it.

Social Credit seems to be one of the vague, murky fog-shapes completely blown away by the wind. In Britain, where it originated, it is never heard of any more. This doesn't mean that our economic system is standing still. Indeed, when some wild-eyed gentleman grasps me firmly by the lapel and demands the end of the profit system I can only reply—what profit system? It is practically ended already and changing so fast that no one can give the new thing a name. What are the reformers worrying about?

Some inklings of the change under way appear now and then in unexpected places. One of them is a recent article in Collier's concerning Mr. Ernest Bevin. Mr. Bevin, it is said, has become virtually vice-premier of Great Britain and he has behind him the united labor movement of the British Isles. If he wanted to, says Collier's, he could call 9,000,000 workers out on strike tomorrow morning and cripple the whole Kingdom. Being a patriot, Mr. Bevin will do nothing of the sort. Instead, he is busy helping Mr. Churchill, the aristocrat, the man of wealth, to win the war.

Nevertheless, Mr. Bevin's social pressure is being felt. It is being felt in the nature of the British budget, which even yet is not taxing enough among the poor but is relying too much on rich men's wealth, which does not exist in sufficient quantities to pay for the war.

Mr. Bevin's pressure will be felt much more when the war is over. By that time nearly everybody will be poor. Britain will have gone through an economic revolution without bloodshed. "Now," says Wickham Steed, "we are approaching a point at which there may be only one (living) standard for all and a low standard at that." Everybody has become a worker. The great fortunes are being confiscated. A new society, a new economic system, a new way of life are being born over there. Only an idiot imagines that we can avoid something of the sort—less painful, perhaps, but nonetheless fundamental—over here.

RESTRICTED MARKETS

From Toronto Star

The war has given the United Kingdom a long lead as Canada's chief customer. In the first six months of this year she was a market for Canadian goods and products to the extent of nearly $248,000,000, compared with $152,800,000 in the same period of 1939. United States purchases in Canada totaled less than $192,000,000, compared with $145,200,000 in 1939. These two countries together absorbed about $440,000,000 of the half year's exports of $548,100,000.

It is a case of United Kingdom first, United States second, and all other countries "distanced" as markets for Canadian products. Australia, Canada's third best customer, took only $18,400,000 worth; South Africa $13,100,000 worth. New Zealand has cut her half-year exports of Canadian goods nearly in half—less than $4,600,000 this year as against nearly $8,100,000 in the first six months of 1939.

While many countries have now disappeared as markets for Canada's output owing to the war, Canada's exports nevertheless increased from $403,500,000 in the first half of 1939 to $548,100,000 in the first half of 1940.

NO NEED TO TAP WIRES

From New York Post

To the average American the most dreadful aspect of life as it is lived in Germany under Hitler is the abolition of personal freedom. He shudders at the thought of being in perpetual dread of a Gestapo, of having no chance to speak his mind freely for fear that his friend may be a spy or that the stranger at the next table may be noting down his remarks.

In Nazi Germany a man's home is no sanctuary. The Gestapo may break in at any moment. A dictaphone may be concealed behind the picture on the wall. The telephone can be used only for the most guarded conversations, lest the secret police may be listening. Even a jest, misconstrued by the spy who overheard it, might cost a man his life.

REMINISCENT

From Montreal Star

After the young singer had finished her second encore, the old lady leaned forward and said: "Thank you so much for your songs, my dear. They took me back to childhood days on my father's farm. There were times when you sang that I could shut my eyes and fairly hear the old front gate creaking in the wind."

Elmore Philpott

CANADA SHOULD LEAD

ON AUGUST 29 the Ottawa Journal carried a leading editorial article entitled "Well, Who Is Blocking the 'Union Now' Idea?" This is, in general, a fine article. It sets forth clearly and briefly just what the "Union Now" plan is. But in another respect there is an important oversight in its line of argument.

It refers to Mr. Churchill's immortal phrase about British-American intermingling:

"No one can stop it. Like the Mississippi, it just keeps rolling along. Let it roll. Let it roll on full flood, inexorable, irresistible, to broader lands and better days."

Then the Journal asks:

"What, then, is stopping Union Now? Not Britain. Not Canada, or the other dominions. Not any of these, but rather the isolationists of the United States, the Lindberghs, the Fords, the short-sighted congressmen who cannot see beyond their own front gates, the vast masses of people in that country who never have thought things out but just placidly assume they cannot be touched by the misfortunes which blast less-blessed lands."

It is at home that Mr. Streit must do his missionary work. From the short-range point of view the above may be an accurate picture. But it is not the complete picture. And Canadians can do something about it, besides just waiting for the United States. Wars are not won by defence alone. Every good general down through history has known that he had to attack. So, too, in the world of diplomacy and politics. Movements have to be started, and kept going.

For instance, in Canada would we ever have achieved Confederation when we did had not George Brown taken the unusual course of suggesting to his chief political opponent, Sir John A. Macdonald, that such might be the way out of the impasse of that day?

LEAVING IT TO GEORGE

THE narrow-minded, short-sighted people do not all live in the United States. Nor do all the lazy people—the ones who admit that somehow, some time, somewhere, such-and-such might be a good thing to do, and they are all for it—provided that somebody else does all the worrying about getting it done.

Last winter I traveled from coast to coast in Canada, and the overwhelming majority of all Canadians I met appeared to be in favor of the plan for uniting in one federation the United States, the seven British democracies, and such other real democracies as were ready, willing and able to join.

There were, and are, in Canada, so far as I can discover, but few Canadians opposed to the "Union Now" plan.

The only serious objection from any reasonable quarter in Canada that I have seen or heard is that "Union Now" would be wonderful, for Canada especially, if we could get it, but we had better hope and work for something less far-reaching, less "Utopian."

With this objection I take direct issue. The whole question, in my mind, is whether the British Commonwealth and the United States will agree, while there is yet time, to unite for their own protection, and for the sake of all humanity.

SPEAK OUT NOW

THERE IS A VERY live and growing interest in the United States in the Union Now proposals. Groups of citizens are inserting full-page newspaper advertisements all across the country urging the United States to take the lead in calling a conference at which representatives of their own country would join with those of the seven self-governing British nations to consider ways to form one union, with one congress or parliament with full power over such things as defence and international commerce.

Naturally every newspaper, big or small, which believes in such U.S.-British union should say so. But municipal councils could help by passing resolutions, by asking our Prime Minister to do so.

ister, to state Canada's willingness for such a union. Provincial legislatures could do likewise.

The Dominion Parliament might electrify the whole world by saying officially this autumn just what the Ottawa Journal said last month.

Or, if we are pressed for space, we might simply say Canada wants Union Now—now.

METHODISTS AND CHICKEN

From Montgomery Advertiser

Just because this town is over-run with Methodist preachers the market for frying-size chickens need not go haywire. We know a lot of Methodist preachers that also like turkey, quail, ham, pork chops, chit'lins and black-eye peas. Let us be philosophical about it and remember that the Baptists beat the Methodists to this town by several days and made their own foray against our chicken resources. Baptists like chicken as well as Methodists, but somehow the Methodists get all the credit for this discriminating taste.

'I Did It,' Myles Told Esquimalt Policeman

Ronald Albin Myles, leading seaman in the Royal Canadian Navy, confessed to killing his 36-year-old wife, Mrs. Edith Myles, to Constable William Stark of the Esquimalt police force, on the night of August 30 in their home at 1329 Esquimalt Road, according to evidence given at the second day of his trial before Magistrate Henry C. Hall in Esquimalt Police Court yesterday afternoon.

Myles was charged Saturday morning with the murder of his wife.

Constable Stark said he went to the Myles' home at 10.20 on the night of August 30 on the instruction of Chief of Police Henry W. Pecknold, who had received a telephone call.

He was unaware of the circumstances of the call and when he rang the doorbell, Myles opened the door and asked him to come in. "I went in and asked him what the trouble was," Constable Stark testified.

"Myles said: 'My wife is lying on the floor.'"

"What happened?" I asked. "I did it, sir," he replied.

"Where is she?"

"In there," he said, motioning towards the back of the house, the constable told the court.

The statements Myles made were voluntary, the policeman said. While making the statements his voice was calm and cool.

"I went from the hall to the dining-room from where I could see a body on the floor of the kitchen. The light in the kitchen was turned on. The body was beside the back door. I went to the body and put my hand to the forehead. It was cold. I phoned for the chief and Dr. McCallum."

Dr. John S. McCallum testified he arrived at the Myles home at 10.25. Mrs. Myles was dead. He estimated that the woman had been dead for more than an hour.

Chief of Police Pecknold said Myles acted naturally and was at ease when he arrived at the house after Constable Stark's call. The chief said he asked Myles what had happened without telling him anything he said might be used in evidence.

The trial adjourned at this point. Stuart Henderson, appearing for the accused, did not want an admission made because of the fact Myles had not been warned. G. Sedger, crown prosecutor, was prepared to argue on the question.

Adjournment was made in order that Mr. Henderson could prepare himself in argument against the crown on the point. This was scheduled to start at 2.30 this afternoon.

Frederick G. Aldous, B.C. land

surveyor, submitted plans made of the Myles house at the request of Mr. Sedger. Two plans were marked exhibits 1 and 2.

FATHER TESTIFIES

William G. Hulbert, Barclay Street, Vancouver, father of the deceased, identified a photograph as being that of his daughter and son-in-law.

He testified he visited them at their home on Esquimalt Road on August 5 and found them to be happy.

"My daughter had written me she was in a little financial difficulty," Mr. Hulbert testified.

Accused made reference to the matter when the father visited them. He showed Mr. Hulbert a notice he had put in the paper stating he would not be responsible for any further debts contracted by his wife.

Alexander Sinclair, R.C.N., who had known the accused for 10 years, testified to a conversation he had had with Myles in Halifax on January 15.

"Things were not going as good as they could be at home," Myles told Sinclair.

In Victoria on leave on March 4, Sinclair delivered a letter from Myles to his wife. He called at the Myles' home on March 22 for an answer to the letter and, on entering the house, he noticed a sailor's cap and oilskins in the hall. Mrs. Myles had her hat and coat on.

Later in the evening, after visiting friends, Sinclair said he saw who he thought was Mrs. Myles with an able seaman turn off Lyall Street towards the beach.

Thomas Daniel Leonard Atwell, R.C.N., said he had known Myles a year and on August 30 last he went to the Tudor House beer parlor with the accused at 4.15 in the afternoon. He remained with him until 5.45.

George Arthur Grivel, R.C.N., had known Myles 10 years. He testified he was with Myles at the Tudor House from 5.20 to 7.35 on the night of August 30. Accused was happy and jovial when Grivel left him, according to testimony.

Henry Edward Abercrombie, R.C.N., had known accused four years and he had seen him at the Tudor House at 4.30 in the afternoon of August 30. He returned to the beer parlor later and Myles came to his table around 8 and stayed with him for about 45 minutes.

"MARRIAGE WASHED UP"

"I asked him why he did not go home," Abercrombie testified. "He said he wasn't going and added 'My marriage is just about washed up. I saw a lawyer in Halifax and I have some letters with initials on them.'"

Benoit Fouquet, leading cook of the R.C.N., who lives at 1331 Esquimalt Road, said he spoke to Mrs. Myles at her home about 7.45 on the evening of August 30. Mrs. Myles was sitting on the front doorstep smoking a cigarette. He went home and left again at 8, going to the Tudor House where he saw the accused.

William Smith Ramsay, R.C.N.R., said he had known Myles casually since around the middle of July. He testified he saw the accused at the Tudor House about 8.15 the night of August 30. He invited Myles to have a beer with him. Myles said he would be right with him as he went to the lavatory.

"Myles did not come out," Ramsay testified. "I went to the lavatory and Myles did not look very well. He was wiping his nose and mouth with a handkerchief."

Myles went back to the table

War Loan Equips These Fighting Men

A hard, brown crew of soldiers, showing the effects of a year of military training, marched through Victoria streets yesterday afternoon to prove that Canada's war chest is being spent on the development of efficient fighting crews. They were the 1st Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, which was mobilized into the C.A.S.F. at the outbreak of war and has been assigned to the 3rd Division. In the above picture is a section led by Major R. Travis. Just before the troops arrived in the downtown section two huge R.C.A.F. bombers flew overhead and dropped leaflets bearing the slogan: "Buy Bonds to Beat Barbarism" and "Buy Bonds to Avoid Bombing."

with Ramsay, but he did not drink any beer.

"He said he was feeling kind of tough," Ramsay continued. "He said he should go home. 'They've been phoning all over for me—she's sick.'"

"Myles went back to the lavatory and, after a while, came out and left the beer parlor," Ramsay continued in his testimony.

"I left about 8.50 to go to the Coach and Horses. Myles was outside standing on the corner. We moved off towards the Coach and Horses. I followed him about 200 feet behind. Myles went into a house. As I came near I saw him standing on the veranda."

From Ramsay's description of the house Myles entered, it was his home at 1329 Esquimalt Road. "Myles walked straight enough. He seemed all right," Ramsay added. "I stayed at the Coach and Horses 10 or 15 minutes and then came back past the house Myles went into. Everything seemed in order."

RETURNED TO PARLOR

According to testimony, Myles returned to the Tudor House after going home.

George Watson Candy, R.C.N., said accused visited him at his table in the Tudor House about 9.30 the same night. He stayed 15 or 20 minutes, Candy testified. He was not drunk.

LYSANDER PLANE TO BE CITY GIFT

Victoria's contribution to the Air Force through the Air Supremacy Campaign will be designated by a Lysander type plane, according to word received today by Mayor Andrew McCallum from Hon. Charles G. Power, Minister of National Defence.

Use of that kind of airplane at Patricia Bay had been approved by the department and one of the machines would be inscribed as the Victoria gift, the letter said.

The communication came as the city collector's staff expressed appreciation of late donations from young air enthusiasts. One, of 90 cents, came from J. Griffith, Don Taylor and Ian Firth, three youngsters who—picked blackberries, sold them and devoted the proceeds to the campaign fund.

Two others of $3 each were received from the boys ward of the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

MACKENZIE VOTES ON SEPTEMBER 21

Machinery for the provincial by-election in Mackenzie riding went into action today after the Provincial Secretary's Department was officially notified of Saturday's nominations.

Voting takes place September 21, but a quiet campaign is expected. The poll is a straight fight between Manfred McGeer, Burnaby contractor, Liberal, and Charles Grant MacNeil, sales manager, C.C.F. Conservatives remained out of the contest in line with their policy not to raise political issues during the war.

The seat has been held by a Liberal since 1937.

Man Electrocuted In Lightning Storm

SEATTLE (AP)—An electrical wind and rain storm that spread over a large portion of Washington State last night dealt its heaviest blow to the Yakima Valley, where it left one man dead and another critically injured.

W. J. Page, 34, was electrocuted while working on a charger in a battery shop when a lightning bolt followed the power line into the shop.

L. A. Gans attempted to switch on a light while the storm was at its height and was injured. He was rushed to a hospital suffering from shock and paralysis and placed in an iron lung.

Lightning started at least seven fires in the valley, including four hog kilns in the Moxee district east of Yakima. Farmers reported the damage to hops and fruits in the valley was heavy. Rural power and telephone lines were disrupted in the entire district.

Win Popularity

No report has yet been prepared for the city school board on guest children who have reached Victoria and are attending school here from war-torn Europe, George H. Deane, municipal inspector, said today.

The number registered at the various schools was relatively small, but more were coming, he said. Those here had quickly adapted themselves to their new mode of living and were well liked both by teachers and fellow students, he said.

A report on the new arrivals will be prepared within a short time for the board.

Y.M.C.A. Entertainers Sing for Sailors

The Red Triangle concert party of the Y.M.C.A. were received with enthusiastic applause at a party at the naval barracks. The troupe made a colorful picture in red and white uniforms. It includes such well-known local singers as Sheila Conway, Catherine Craig, Elaine Basanta, Cathrine Dennison, Barbara Dawson, James McVie, Dudley Wickett, John Bray and Frank Paulding.

Heleen Ockenden, the accompanist, was heard in a special solo number, as were the various members of the party.

Guest artists for the evening included two members of the Royal Canadian Engineers, "Bob" and "Fred," Jimmy Haggart, piano accordionist; Murray McIntosh; Frank Merryfield, the magician. Fred Arnett was accompanist for community singing and Warren Martin was master of ceremonies.

City delegates to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities Convention in Revelstoke September 16, 17 and 18 met with representatives from Samich yesterday to study resolutions scheduled to go before the municipal gathering. Approval was given the list by the delegates here. At yesterday's session were Reeve A. G. Lambbrick and two Saanich councillors and Mayor Andrew McGavin, Alderman Archie Wills, Alderman S. H. Okell, Alderman D. D. McTavish and F. L. Shaw, city solicitor.

Weddings

TRUMAN—MacGACHEN

At St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill, this afternoon at 3, Rev. Frederic Pike solemnized the marriage of Ethel Blanche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. MacGachen, 3386 Connorton Lane, and Kenneth Alexander Truman of Regina, Sask., son of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Truman of Winnipeg, Man. The little church was beautifully decorated with gladioli and other autumn flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pique Queen model afternoon frock of star sapphire blue, with shirred bolero and pearl choker, with matching accessories, and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and gardenias. There were no attendants, and the church organist played the wedding music.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony, Mrs. MacGachen receiving in a gown of navy crepe, with a corsage bouquet of Joanna Hill roses. The bride's cake, surrounded with pink tulle and pink tapers, and roses in silver bud vases, centred the table from which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman left later on a tour of Vancouver Island, before leaving for Regina, via the Kettle valley, with stops at Banff and Windermere. The bride traveled in a dressmaker suit of navy boucle, with matching accessories. They will make their home at Regina. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of the University of Manitoba.

MURDOCK—HAMERSLEY

The marriage of Ruth Shaen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hamersley, 1989 Crescent Road, and Mr. Roy Murdock, only son of Mrs. E. A. Murdock, Napier, New Zealand, and the late Mr. Murdock, took place quietly at the Oak Bay United Church on Sunday afternoon at 3, Rev. F. R. G. Dredge officiating.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Hugh L. Hamersley, the bride wore an afternoon dress of rose sheer wool with a matching turban and beige accessories and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and swansonia.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. E. Norton-Jones, who wore a smart blue wool afternoon dress with a blue hat and matching accessories and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. Harry J. Barnes was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Murdock left immediately after the service for a honeymoon up-island, the bride donning a beige coat with beige fox collar over her wedding ensemble. On their return they will reside at 2583 Lingdon Road.

Mr. Murdock is a member of the Daily Colonist editorial staff, and among the many gifts received by the young couple was one from his associates, Mr. Charles Swayne, the editor, making the presentation on the eve of the wedding.

SEVERSON—MICKELSON

A quiet wedding took place on Friday at the Victoria Truth Centre, when Rev. E. M. Smiley united in marriage Ada, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mickelson, 1045 Pendergast Street, and Petty Officer Carl Severson, R.C.N., of Alberta. Miss Ivy Mickelson, sister of the bride, and Mr. Glenn Hamilton were the attendants. After the ceremony the bride and groom left by motor for a trip up the Island and will make their home in Victoria.

Reaches Britain

Richard Greene, popular movie actor, who left Hollywood by plane for New York two weeks ago, arrived in London yesterday, according to a cable received by his mother, Mrs. Kathleen Greene, here this morning. Greene caught St. Samaria at New York. Greene's immediate intention is to join one of the services in Britain.

IN BRIDAL SATIN—Mrs. William Alfred Gornall, the former Lillian Grace Fancett, who was married at St. Mary's, Oak Bay, last Saturday evening.

Social and Personal

Mrs. Herbert T. J. Coleman of Deep Cove is spending a few days in town, and is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Willis, Fort Street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Widdows of Vancouver are visiting here the guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McWha, Linden Avenue.

Mrs. L. A. Myren and daughter, Brenda, who have been spending a vacation in Vancouver, have returned to their home at Langford Lake.

Mrs. Lex Johnston who, with her two children, Trevor and Desmond, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barnett, Cedar Hill Road, have left for her home in Port Hardy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Minnis, Hollywood Crescent, were congratulated by many friends on reaching their 25th wedding anniversary when they entertained at a bridge party last evening.

Miss Verna Taylor of "Strangely Home," Langford, left today for Vancouver, where she has accepted the position of primary teacher at Taunton House School, Kistilano.

Mr. Claude Heggie, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Heggie of Langford, left on Friday for Vancouver en route for Toronto to join the Royal Canadian Air Force. Mrs. Heggie accompanied her son and spent the week-end on the mainland.

Mr. R. E. Walker and Lady Emily Walker, 1378 Leighton Road, are celebrating the 45th anniversary of their wedding today, having been married at Holy Trinity Church, Arrow, Warwickshire, England, on September 10, 1895. The late Bishop of Ripon, Dr. Boyd Carpenter, officiated. Mr. Walker, being his private chaplain. Their son, Corporal Rupert A. Walker, R.C.A.M.C., R.C.A.F., has been on leave and returned to Brandon on Friday where he is in charge of the hospital. Their other son, John, is with the R.A.F. in England, leaving Mrs. F. Caffery as the only member of the family with them.

Members of the Morris Service Club met at the home of Miss Jean Lorimer, South Turner Street, last evening and after business was over, Miss Evelyn Fleming, the president, presented Miss Eleanor Laneley with a fragrant corsage bouquet of pink roses, white heather and sweet peas and a dainty bread box and set of kitchen canisters, accompanied by their felicitations on her approaching marriage. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a lace cloth and lighted with tall tapers in silver candlesticks. Members present included Mrs. Cecil Davies and the Misses A. Morris, Evelyn and Margaret Fleming, Irene Davis, Jean Lorimer, Bessie and Eleanor Laneley, Dorothy Bishop, Ella Houston and Violet Brown. On Sunday evening, after the service at James Bay United Church, Mr. F. Schroeder, choir president, presented Miss Laneley with a handsome table lamp on behalf of the choir, of which the bride-to-be is a popular member.

Mrs. R. R. Watson, Wilmut Place, is visiting at Revelstoke with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Watson.

Mrs. J. P. D. Pemberton has left to join her husband in eastern Canada and to make her home there indefinitely.

Mrs. W. P. D. Pemberton, Foul Bay Road, who has been staying at her country home at Sproat Lake, has returned home.

Mrs. F. W. Vincent, Crescent Road, went over to Vancouver yesterday afternoon on a visit to her sister, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong.

Miss Mona Rickaby has returned home after spending her holidays in Vancouver with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrard Clute.

Miss Betty Owens of Baltimore, who has been visiting Mrs. J. E. Semmes and Mrs. J. W. Benning, Rockland Avenue, will leave tomorrow for her home in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gamble, Chester Street, have returned from a motor trip to their home in Prince George. Mrs. S. J. Watson of Vancouver is their guest for a few days.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Kenneth Graham, who have been making their home at Glen Lake for the summer, have returned to Victoria and taken up their residence at 3115 Quadra Street.

Miss Pat Lock, whose marriage to Mr. Bill Levy will take place on September 23, was guest of honor on Saturday evening when Mrs. Amelia Ray and Miss Jean Scott entertained jointly at the home of the latter, North Quadra Street. Upon her arrival the Scotts presented the bride-to-be with a corsage bouquet of pink roses and heather. They then led her to a handsome coffee table, the joint gift of those present, which was prettily wrapped in pink and white and tied with a huge bow of pink cellophane, and placed beneath a beautifully decorated parasol from which fell a shower of pink, white and mauve streamers. Games caused much amusement, the winners being Mrs. Mercer and Miss Jean Jenvey. A buffet supper was served. Mrs. A. Lock, mother of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. W. Levy, mother of the groom-elect, presiding at the prettily-appointed table, which was covered with a lace cloth and arranged with an artistic centrepiece of cosmos, white carnations and petunias in a cut glass bowl, with pink and white streamers, and a wedding bell hanging overhead. Asters and zinnias formed the colorful decoration of the reception rooms. The guests included Mesdames A. Lock, W. Levy, R. Mercer, C. Holman, J. C. Kemp, N. Hill, P. Burdige, H. Clarke, R. Davis, R. Crocker, R. Wakeman, M. Foster, and the Misses Agnes Brookman, Irene Campbell, Jean Jenvey, Isobel Gilroy, Barbara Kemp, Marguerite Lalonde, Amelia Levy, Jean McConnell, Kay Randall, Joan Robinson, Aileen Robertson, Mary Sibley, Margaret Winter, Catherine Watson, Betty Young, Irene Scott and Roberta Ray.

Jubilee Juniors Busy Throughout Summer

Summer brought no halt in the activities of the Junior W.A. to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, according to the reports presented at the meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Nurses' Home, Mrs. W. B. Wilson, the new president, in the chair.

Mrs. Jack Gray, convener of the bandaging committee, reported that during the summer 55,088 dressings were made at the weekly gatherings, which were attended by an average of 12 members. Mrs. R. B. Horton told of four diet cases carried on and one completed. Mrs. A. C. Futcher, convener of the visiting committee, reported 63 hospital and 60 home visits during June, July and August. Mrs. Joan Jameson reported goods amounting to $7.50 sold from the showcase. The social service worker, Miss M. McBride, reported 24 home visits, boarding home care arranged for 12 cases, transportation provided for 14 patients and 1 layette given.

THRIFT SHOP

Mrs. H. V. Blenkinsop, convener of the Thrift Shop, announced the following conveners of departments in connection with this branch of the auxiliary's work: Marking, Mrs. G. H. Simons; finance, Mrs. Joan Jameson; booking, Mrs. E. Goodall and Miss Marianne Fraser; cleaning, Mrs. Andrew Wright; supply, Mrs. R. B. Wilson. The members were reminded that each would be expected to supply $5 worth of clothing for the shop during the year. Appreciation was expressed of the gift from Dr. T. W. Walker of new shelves, clothing boxes and a trestle table for the shop.

The conveners of the various standing committees were reappointed, with the exception of the magazine committee, which will now be in charge of Mrs. A. Gonslow, and who appealed for more magazines for patients, and the vacation committee, now headed by Mrs. C. L. Aylard.

TAG DAY $1,268.89

Mrs. R. A. Wootton, convener of the Junior W.A. in the Hospital Day tag day, reported that the total collection amounted to $1,268.89 and that the band, costing $10, had been provided by the Junior W.A. Mrs. Wootton was warmly thanked for her able direction.

The first meeting of the sewing group will be held on September 17 at the home of Mrs. Joan Jameson, and the first meeting of the vocational committee will be held at the home of Mrs. Alan MacLean on September 18. Glasses will be provided for a needy patient, it was reported. A letter of thanks was read from a patient for whom new teeth had been supplied.

DOLL BAZAAR

The annual doll bazaar will be held on December 4, and Mrs. H. M. Young will act as general convener in place of Mrs. Charles A. Watson, whose resignation was accepted with regret.

The auxiliary has decided to take charge of the next decorated tables display during the spring Garden Week, as the Business and Professional Women's Club found it impossible to continue its part in arranging the display.

Langford

Colwood Women's Institute members and friends will hear Mrs. Nellie McClung on September 18 at 3 in the Colwood Hall.

NAVAL WEDDING—Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Randall, who were married Saturday night at the Esquimalt Naval and Military United Church. The bride was the former Betty Anderson.

Teachers Lose Posts

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two Manitoba school teachers have been dismissed and their teaching licenses canceled for allegedly tampering with examination papers, the Manitoba Department of Education announced. Officials declined to disclose the names of the pair.

Two of the pupils whose papers had been tampered with had been qualified for scholarships. They together with seven others, will be required to rewrite their examinations, officials said.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Little Miss Sunshine

"You'd never guess how much I worried about my system was sluggish and it a ball and chain!"

Anyone — young or old — may have the "ball and chain" feeling that can result from too little bulk in the diet.

Post's Bran Flakes help to prevent "ball and chain" feeling. They provide natural bulk in the form of bran to keep food wastes moving promptly.

"Susie's a ray of sunshine now," says Mrs. Ford. "And who wouldn't be with scrumptious Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast?" laughs Susie.

Call to Women Here To Volunteer As Drivers

The Canadian Red Cross is sending out a call to women who are British subjects, over 18 years of age, who wish to give voluntary time and service to their country, and who can comply with the conditions of service, to apply for membership in the Women's Voluntary Service Corps.

This will comprise a corps of khaki uniformed qualified women drivers, serving without salary and trained to handle anything on four wheels. Members will be trained to handle trucks transporting food and comforts, as well as personnel, to training camps in Canada. They will also be trained to handle ambulances in anticipation of a demand for such service in this country, and assist with refugees arriving in Canada. The transport service is but one branch of the Service Corps.

Those accepted for the course will be enrolled as probationers and before graduating to full membership must take courses provided in map and compass reading, convoy driving and stretcher drill, air raid precautions and the King's Regulations and Orders, driving tests in day and night driving, and so on.

Applicants are required to hold a St. John Ambulance First Aid Certificate and to have taken one of the approved courses in motor mechanics before being accepted as probationers. Evidence of previous war-driving experience is accepted as an alternative for the latter. A 1940 driver's license, without suspensions or endorsements for two years previous is necessary. Members will pay for their own uniform and serve without salary. Drill and physical exercises will be compulsory. Cost of full dress uniform is approximately $40 or an "undress uniform" may be purchased for $25.

Two character references are required from reputable citizens. Accepted applicants will be subject to medical examination.

Mrs. N. R. Kennedy of the B.C. Women's Service Corps, with Mrs. Alan Morkill, have undertaken on behalf of Red Cross to interview applicants. Registration will commence next Thursday from 1.30 to 5 p.m. at Red Cross headquarters, Metropolitan Building, 605 Courtenay Street, and will be continued Tuesdays and Thursdays until September 26.

Clubwomen's News

The South Saanich United Church Women's Association will meet at the home of Mrs. C. Cruickshank, Keating Cross Road, on Thursday afternoon.

Craigflower Dramatic Club held their first meeting of the season on Thursday night. All of the cast were present and anxious to start rehearsals for their first concert this month. The new officers elected were: Miss Bette Clair, president, and Mrs. Clair, secretary.

An executive meeting of the Tuckabatchee Club was held at the home of Mrs. A. Davies, Friday evening, to arrange for the fall meetings. A picnic meeting will be held this evening at the Gorge; all members to bring a spoon and a cup and be at the Gorge bus terminus at 6, or as soon after as possible.

St. Andrew's Women's Guild met yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mrs. C. W. Hawkins, the president, in the chair. After the devotional period, a standing tribute was paid to the memory of the late Miss Sutherland, and the members stood in silence in sympathy with those who had been bereaved. A rummage sale will be held on October 2, Mrs. W. Head to be the convener. A silver tea will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Hood, 633 Simcoe Street, on October 16. The tea hostesses were Mrs. C. W. Hawkins and Mrs. George Sanson, and on behalf of the guild, Mrs. A. Elliott thanked the tea conveners.

Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 5, met recently in Shrine Hall, Mrs. C. Jasper, the president, in the chair. Arrangements were made for a rummage sale in the near future, also for a bazaar in November. Members are organizing bridge clubs, both for afternoons and evenings throughout the coming winter. To help out the war effort of the league across Canada the sum of $1 per member was voted towards this cause. The subject of making up garments for refugees was discussed, and Mrs. H. McInnes kindly consented to take this matter up with the Canadian Red Cross Society, and report back to the sewing group. The next executive meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. M. Whitwell, 1921 Crescent Road, Thursday evening, September 26.

Councilwomen Want City's Noise and Weeds Reduced

The Local Council of Women will send a letter of protest to the City Council, complaining of the unnecessary noise in the downtown streets at night and also of the fire and noxious weed hazard created by the overgrown condition of a number of vacant lots, and asking that the ordinances regarding both these nuisances be enforced.

This action was taken at the meeting of the council held in the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon. Mrs. A. E. Hopkins, acting president, in the chair. In a resume of the summer activities of the council, Mrs. Hopkins told of the jam-making bees held in the interests of food conservation, noting that to date about 1,900 pounds of jam and apple butter had been made and placed in the Victoria cold storage plant to be drawn upon by the Red Cross as required. The council passed a vote of thanks to Mrs. Hopkins and her co-workers, as well as to the numerous friends who had generously helped by sending preserving jars, assisting with fruit-picking, transportation and furnishing of fruit.

SALE OF ALCOHOL

Mrs. M. C. Wilkinson brought to the meeting a copy of a resolution, sponsored by an influential delegation representative of the churches of Canada which waited on the Federal cabinet, and asking "That sale of alcoholic beverages in taverns, beer-rooms, wine shops, etc., be discontinued and that sale of such beverages be confined entirely to government-owned liquor stores; that sale from government liquor stores be permitted only between the hours of 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening and on week-days only; that all advertising of liquor in Canada be forbidden except in the place of sale; and that when the request in item 1 is implemented, an order issue from the Department of Defence closing all wet canteens in military establishments."

Copies of the resolution will be sent to the affiliated societies for their consideration, and such action as they desire, on which they will be asked to report at the next meeting of the council.

Dr. Olga Jardine briefly reviewed the proceedings of the statutory executive meeting of the national council, held in Toronto, in place of the usual convention. Resolutions supported at that meeting included one in favor of the adoption of a uniform daylight-saving schedule; the enacting of legislation concerning the nationality of married women; one requesting women to abstain from the use of intoxicants for the duration of the war, for exemplary purposes; urging the continuance of the youth training project; requesting women to "buy British" for the duration; and urging non-shipment of Canadian metals to enemy countries during the war.

HOUSES OF PROSTITUTION

Dr. Jardine also told of the steps taken by the Local Council of Women, in conjunction with the Council of Social Agencies, to implement the suggestions made by Dr. Gordon Williams concerning the bawdy houses in Victoria. Correspondence and interviews had been exchanged with the police commission, and Dr. Jardine reported that she had been assured last week by the commission that the houses in question had been closed, and that the police were watching the matter closely.

Dr. Jardine was congratulated on her re-election as sixth vice-president of the National Council, and her election to a vice-presidency in the National Y.W.C.A., also as a national convener in the Federation of University Women's Clubs.

COMMEND M.P.'S STAND

The council, at the suggestion of Mrs. Bertha Parsons, commended Mr. R. W. Mayhew's stand in protesting against the ignoring of Victoria in national publicity, in which references are made of Halifax to Vancouver as the limits of the Dominion.

Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin gave the meeting some detailed information concerning resumed cadet instruction in the junior and high schools of the city. The council passed a resolution commending the provincial government on having introduced some measure of traffic safety education into the school curriculum.

Satko Stakes Out Alaska Homestead

TACOMA (AP)—Paul Satko, the Virginia welder who rode out court orders, caustic criticism and coastal storms to give his family "a new start in life," has established a 122-acre homestead in Alaska and, appropriately enough, has named it "Journey's End."

Satko, self-styled modern Christopher Columbus who built his own boat, a marine monstrosity he named the Ark, for the Alaskan voyage, sketched a pleasant picture of pioneering in a letter to newsmen who befriended him while he was completing his vessel, started in Satko's home town, Richmond, Va.

"Journey's End" is on the confluence of the Eagle and Herbert Rivers, where the water is "just off the glaciers and ice cold," Satko said, describing a forest from which the once-impoorished Virginia family can see towering mountains and glaciers.

B.C. ELECTRIC Social and Personal

Mr. Arthur Chapman of the staff of the Bureau of Economics and Statistics, Parliament Buildings, will leave tomorrow to take a post-graduate course at the Northwestern College, Chicago, in the Department of Management at the School of Commerce.

Mrs. W. Lees, who is leaving Victoria shortly to make her home in Vancouver, was guest of honor at a tea held recently at the home of Mrs. J. E. Barnett, Cedar Hill Road. The tea table was covered with a hand-made lace cloth and centred with a crystal bowl of sweet peas. In pastel shades, Mrs. A. E. Lewis poured tea and the hostess was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Lex Johnston. During the afternoon the guest of honor was presented with a small gift by little Trevor Johnston. Those invited were Mesdames A. E. Lewis, Crozier Smith, R. Berry, Gerald Lane, J. Neary, J. Langdon, W. Elford, Leslie Lane, G. Tredwell, W. H. Murray and Miss Barbara Lees.

The Midway

Gay Side Shows Attract Crowds

"Step right up, lady, you win every time."

"If we don't guess your age within three years you'll win a prize."

"Try them hot, red hot, right from the pan."

"The one and only human icicle in the world."

"Authentic, absolutely authentic—your money back if it isn't." The fair's in town, and what would a fair be without a midway? And the midway at the exhibition at the Willows this year is as fine as anywhere in North America, for the size of it. The gay, glittering centre pathway, with its alluring and tantalizing aromas of hot dogs and onions, its music and its noise, its happy, carefree spirit, its strolling throngs—all at the Willows this week, with equal fascination for young and old.

And this year, of course, there's the added color of service uniforms—sailors, soldiers and airmen, willing to spend the last cent in their pockets on a good time.

FINE SIDESHOWS

The sideshows this year are exceptionally fine—they're real "big town." It's a new show, with freaks and all sorts of unusual people, who perform weird tricks and take your mind off the war and bombings and other unpleasant things.

Bob Ripley's "human icicle" is there, and half a dozen times a day he freezes himself between two tons of ice. Attired in a bathing suit, he crawls between the dripping chunks and stays there until he is practically frozen solid. The spectators, even in the heat of yesterday, literally shivered when he emerged.

Then there's the tall man—7 feet 10 inches he stands in his stocking feet. Beside him is the short man, Major Lawrence, who is 3 feet 10 inches.

Gaudy banners proclaim the two-headed Chinese, the spider girl, with all her horrors, the Oriental mystery, the four-legged girl and the headless woman, all guaranteed authentic. One tent shows you how to cheat death. In another is a man who lets you pin things into his skin.

All in all, the sideshows are worth seeing. They have thrilled and amused and made speechless thousands of people from Los Angeles to the midwest and on to Canada. From here the show will go to Puyallup, one of the biggest exhibitions in the northwest.

The rides are as exciting as ever. Always popular is the ferocious wheel, while the more adventurous sit in chairs that spin them far out over the crowds. The children enjoy the motor cars and the horses.

So, once again, it's all the fun of the fair at the Willows. Five more days left to become a youngster all over again and believe everything you see and hear.

"Step right up, ladies, this is the one and only..."

The Long and Short of It

Major Lawrence, left, is 3 feet 10 inches high and his buddy, Bill Bowling, towering over him, is 7 feet 10 inches, the tallest man in the world. They are among the attractions at the fine Midway at the Victoria Fair.

Australia to Get British Businesses

SYDNEY (CP)—Transfer of certain British firms' interests to Australia is reported to have been undertaken under pressure from the British Treasury.

The Treasury has a twofold purpose—conserving dollars for purchase of armaments in the United States and assisting the development of Australian self-sufficiency in the manufacture of aircraft and certain armaments and munitions, it is stated.

One objective is to encourage United States firms to open branch factories here.

It is reported negotiations are continuing for transfer from British to American ownership of a number of firms.

Sums involved are not known, but it is said that at least one battery manufacturing firm and several machine and tool-making firms may figure in forthcoming

DIES FROM SHOCK

LONDON (CP)—For 15 hours rescuers labored to free a young woman trapped in the debris of a bombed tenement here.

Fully conscious, she murmured to the workers, "it won't be long now..." Just then sirens screamed a new warning. The girl gasped and died. The workers said the shock killed her.

The young woman was Barbara Thomas, 25, massage student of a London hospital. Her cries had brought rescue workers who gave her food, a pain-deadening injection and oxygen, and cut through a wall two feet thick to free her. Then they had to cut away the iron bedstead that held her.

An hour before she died a hospital official declared she was "in excellent spirits."

11 Generals Lose Their Posts In Rumania

BUCHAREST (AP)—Dismissal of 11 Rumanian generals, held partly responsible for Rumania's recent loss of territory, was announced today as Gen. Ion Antonescu, military dictator, continued his investigation of former King Carol's regime.

The decree dismissing the men, who included George Argeanu, a former premier, and Ion Iliescu, former war minister, said they practiced political activity contrary to the good of the state and used "flattery to gain high office."

How badly Carol himself fared when he abdicated last week was still a matter of conjecture. The king left a vast "personal empire" under the shadow of expropriation when he went into exile, but he had shrewdly converted many of his ancestral holdings into cash long ago, informed sources said.

Whether he carried any of this cash with him in his flight was not known, but he and his small retinue, including the red-haired Magda Lupescu, traveled on a 10-car railway train filled with no one here knows what.

ARMAMENTS AND SUGAR

Millions of dollars' worth of his stock in armament companies, sugar refineries, locomotive works and gold mines already have been sequestered by Gen. Antonescu, who now is reported planning similar action against the former monarch's real estate holdings.

Whether the general intends eventually to seize all this property in the name of the nation is unrevealed, but authoritative sources reported a ban would be issued shortly against transfer of any real estate amounting to more than 20 acres, pending completion of an inquiry into Carol's regime.

The "empire" left by the de-throned king—now in Lugano, Switzerland, seeking sanctuary in the United States, South America, on the island of Madeira or on the French Riviera—is said to include vast vineyards.

GLASS HOGSHEADS

The best Rumanian wines are made in these vineyards. In addition his holdings are said to include vast wine cellars with all-glass hogsheads the size of gasoline trucks, expensive sugar plantations, a private airplane, a rare and expensive house, valuable city property, hunting lodges scattered throughout the nation and six or seven great estates.

There were many alleged instances told today of the shrewdness Carol used in the management of his own financial affairs.

The royal palace in the heart of the city, built to look like Buckingham Palace but now much larger than its London prototype because of numerous wings built by Carol, is owned by the ministry of agriculture, the Cotroceni Palace, hidden in private woods at the edge of the city, also belongs to the state.

LIST CANADIAN SOLDIERS KILLED

OTTAWA (CP)—The 16th casualty list of the Canadian Active Service Force, issued by the National Defence Department, includes these names:

Dead—Royal Canadian Army Service Corps: Pte. John Leslie Campbell, Winnipeg.
Dead of wounds—Canadian Dental Corps: Acting-Sgt. Alton Arthur Pierce, Lennoxville, Que.
Seriously ill—Royal Canadian Engineers: C.S.M. Walter Sydney Harris, Selkirk, Man.

Three were listed as dangerously ill and three as seriously ill. The British Air Ministry's 45th casualty list, received here, gives the names of P.O. J. T. Macinnis of Calgary and L.A.C. W. C. Hubbard of Fort Erie, Ont., both of whom were previously reported missing and are now reported killed.

P.O. W. B. Wheelwright of Carbon, Alta., has been killed on active service. P.O. G. W. Salzgeber of North Battleford, Sask., is listed among those wounded or injured on active service.

Winter Training For U.B.C. Students

Every physically fit male student at the University of British Columbia will take six hours' military training a week during the coming winter session, according to an announcement by Registrar Stanley W. Mathews.

Mr. Mathews said the training may be taken in the officers' training corps or in any unit of the army, navy or air force, subject to the approval of the military education committee. The camp is to be held early in May for cadets of the officers' training corps.

When the first spoonful makes you want to SING

THESE ARE THE FLAKES FOR ME TRA-LA!

They'll really give you the "lift" you need

The busier you are, the more vital is a breakfast that does three essential things: (1) rouses your sleepy appetite; (2) gives you the quick energy you need; (3) helps sustain you through hours of driving work.

Proven first in flavour, rich in energizing "carbohydrates," Kellogg's Corn Flakes help keep you going for hours. Time-saving, too—30 seconds to serve... no pots to clean.

Get Kellogg's Corn Flakes—several packages tomorrow! When you breakfast, insist on the wax-wrapped individual package! Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

"Kellogg's five to one," say families across Canada. Yes, when housewives in every Province answered this question: "Which ready-to-eat cereal is favorite in your family?" five times as many said "Kellogg's" as said ANY other kind of corn flakes. The trained palates of flavour experts, testing all four brands of corn flakes, back up the housewives' vote. One of many to take this impartial test, M. Claude Bujard, Chef of the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, says: "This corn-flake taste-test definitely proved to me that Kellogg's wins on flavor!"

ECONOMICAL! A few pennies provide the family's breakfast or supper when you serve fresher, crispier Kellogg's Corn Flakes. Ask your grocer for the new family-size package tomorrow.

REMARKABLE comebacks are sparking the drives of pennant-bound major league ball clubs.

When the Chicago Cubs traded shortstops with the Detroit Tigers at the Cincinnati meetings last December, Gabby Hartnett remarked: "I just got rid of Dick Bartel and his two bad legs."

"Wait till you see Billy Rogell," cut in Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox.

Bartel reported as sound as a dollar... has been the life of the Detroit party. The Chicago Nationals paid Rogell off for the remainder of the campaign the other day... handed him his unconditional release.

Schoolboy Rowe was sent to Beaumont to doctor up his arm in 1938 following two dismal years.

The big right-hander captured his 12th victory of the season in Washington the other afternoon... is somewhere near the stride which made him the hero of Detroit's pennant-winning years of 1934 and '35.

Bartel's pins and Rowe's arm give the Bengals a good chance to score again.

Al Smith had to be talked into remaining in baseball by Steve O'Neill of Buffalo, in May, 1939. Even the Phillies had passed Smith along. But the southpaw developed a screwball, copped 16 straight in the International League, and has bagged 13 games for Cleveland this trip, the majority of them key engagements.

Without Smith, the Indians hardly would be leading the American League procession.

Beau Bell has helped to keep the Tribe on the warpath after two lean seasons in St. Louis and Detroit.

Ernest Natall Lombardi batted 287 for Cincinnati in 1939, which is poor for him. Ernie Lombardi heard the boohies, though he didn't have it coming.

Schnozzle Lombardi was gunned when Charley Keller of the New York Yankees collided with him in the 10th inning of the world series payoff. Lombardi was lampooned throughout the entire off-season for his celebrated "snooze" at the plate, which permitted Joe DiMaggio to go all the way around on a single.

There was talk of trading him. Lombardi made no explanation... advanced no alibi. His bat, mitt and arm spoke for him instead.

The result is that the Reds are running off with another piece of bunting.

The comebacks are not confined to the loftier clubs. Julius Solters got going again under Jimmy Dykes.

Brooklyn didn't care whether Dixie Walker ever reported, but here is the American League discard bidding for the National League batting championship.

Fred Fitzsimmons was listed as a coach at the outset, but at 39 he has turned out to be just about the most valuable pitcher on the Dodgers' payroll. Fat Freddie has won 13 and lost two and has an opportunity to break the National League record for a pitcher's winning percentage—.575, established by Deacon Phillippe in 1910.

Burgess Whitehead was viewed as an extremely doubtful quantity in March, but he made the New York Giants' infield by filling in nicely at third base.

Kicked around no little, Johnny Rizzo found the home run range with the Phillies... leads the club in batting and runs driven in.

Johnny Rizzo bounced out of the doldrums when he struck rock bottom.

Riggs Displays Sportsmanship

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Riggs was greater in defeat today than he ever was in victory.

The little fellow had just seen his most prized possession, the United States national singles tennis championship trophy, handed to Don McNeill of Oklahoma City.

All afternoon the gallery of 7,500 at Forest Hills had applauded wildly when Don came off with a fine shot, and only mildly when Bobby did.

He hadn't been a popular champion, and he knew it. So when the presentation was over, and Don was surrounded with backslapping pals, Bobby walked through the gathering dusk away from the crowded press marquee, across the court on which he had been beaten, to a dressing room under the stands — and for the first time he was the popular kid he should be.

The crowd gave him a sincere burst of prolonged applause, and heart-ache as he was, he walked off with a big grin on his face.

McNeill yesterday knocked Bobby off his throne, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5.

Teamed with McNeill on the American tennis throne is another exponent of slam-bang tennis, blonde Althea Marble of Los Angeles. Making good her bid for her third straight national title — and the fourth in her brilliant career — she shelled Helen Hull Jacobs of the centre court, 6-2, 6-3.

Adanacs Win to Stay in Fight

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — The Canadian champion New Westminster Adanacs are still in the running for the 1940 Inter-city Box Lacrosse League championship — but they are lagging three games to one.

The Mann Cup holders last night displayed some of their championship form of last year to trim Vancouver Burrards 15 to 9 in the fourth game of the best-of-seven series before more than 4,000 persons here.

The champions, on the verge of elimination from the playoffs prior to last night's game, set up a stone wall defence in front of Genie Ed Johnson and kept up a fast pace throughout.

Each team netted two goals in the opening quarter, but Adanacs outscored Burrards four to two in each of the third and fourth quarters before rattling in five to Burrards' three in the final stanza.

Next game will be played at Vancouver tomorrow night.

Whirlpool Nebula Near Big Dipper

Yesterday we spoke of the Great Nebula in Andromeda. It is one of the famous nebulae, and its size is hard to believe. After long and careful study, astronomers have figured the distance across it to be more than 350,000,000,000,000 miles!

The Whirlpool Nebula

If the fastest shell ever fired from a cannon could go such a distance, the time needed would be millions of years. Yet that nebula is only a patch of brightness as we see it from the earth. Astronomers did not know its size until after its distance was learned.

There are many other "patches of brightness" in the sky. They differ in size and in distance from the earth.

The Whirlpool Nebula is of spiral form. Like many other spiral nebulae, directly, and we can make out its figure clearly with the help of a telescope.

The Whirlpool is near the end of the handle of the Big Dipper. Its spiral form was first observed by Rosse, an Irish astronomer, in 1845. Rosse had the largest telescope of that time. It was 50 feet long and six feet in diameter.

Ninety-five years have passed since then and thousands of new spiral "nebulae" have been discovered. Sir James Jeans estimates that more than 2,000,000 of them are within range of present-day telescopes.

The new 200-inch telescope, which is taking a long time to get ready, is expected to open the way to discovery of a vast number of nebulae never known before.

Spiral nebulae are made up largely of stars, or distant suns. Millions of stars are clustered in the same region of the sky, and together they make up an "island universe."

Almost all the stars which we see on a clear night are in our own universe. Those in the Milky Way are much "blurred together," and we cannot see many of them clearly without a telescope. Our own universe has hundreds of millions of stars.

What thoughts we may have when we think of the vast size of our universe, and of other universes which exist in distant space! Do some of those distant suns have planets traveling around them, just as our sun has planets?

HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11

Benefic aspects dominate today. It is most fortunate for men who are leaders in business or politics. Educators come under a direction which encourages practical training for a world in the throes of change. Secret diplomacy will be publicized under this configuration.

The stars seem to presage accent of family ties and interest in the home. Domestic tasks should be followed at this time when, despite national prosperity, the wise will foresee lean days ahead. This is a favorable date for signing contracts and leases. Whatever contributes to stability should be of special concern as foreign war effect social customs and family budgets. The evening is auspicious for lectures and public forums which should interest persons of all ages.

Sacrifice of life in conflicts in the air and on the high seas will be reckoned in large figures this month as weariness of war causes unrest in many parts of Europe. The stars encourage revolutionary uprisings which will accomplish little until the death of a dictator next year.

Persons whose birthdate it is advised to avoid changes in coming months. Good fortune is presaged for both men and women.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with extraordinary talents. Although folk belongs to this sign are artistic, they have practical traits which assure success in life.

Sand free from iron and suitable for making Christmas tree ornaments is reported available in Puerto Rico.

Natural gas, processed cheaply by a recently developed method, is a new source for explosives.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a man 50 years old. Have a good wife and six children, but I have fallen in love with a girl much younger than I am and she says that if I don't free myself from my wife and marry her she will kill herself. I believe she will do this if she cannot get me because she has already tried suicide once. She vows she will take poison again if I do not give up my wife and home and marry her, so what can I do to save her life and yet not wreck my home?

A MAN IN TROUBLE.

ANSWER: I should say you are on the spot, for as our marriage laws are framed on a one-wife basis it seems impossible for you to avoid wrecking a home in order to take on a second wife.

Hence it is up to you to decide which form of crime you will commit and whose heart you will break. My advice to you is to stick by the sensible, good woman who has borne you six children instead of entangling yourself with a hysterical girl with the suicidal mania. You will be a slave to her because she will hold the threat of killing herself over you every time she wants to make you do her way.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We have lost our own baby and want to adopt another to take our darling's place. Where must we go to get one? Our family advises us to wait a few years and see if we do not have children of our own, but we figure that, even if we did, that this adopted one wouldn't be any more than we would have had if our own child had lived. We are people in moderate circumstances.

MR. AND MRS. D. B.

ANSWER: There are child-finding societies in every city that will tell you how to go about adopting a baby. Rearing a child is a very expensive matter in these days, so I would advise you to listen to the advice of your family and wait at least a few years until you are certain that you will not have any children of your own before you undertake the care and maintenance of an adopted baby.

Livestock Champions Named at Exhibition

Judges worked today to complete the prize list in the splendid livestock section at the 79th annual Victoria Fair.

Mainland exhibitors walked off with a majority of the high honors, cows and bulls from the big farms near Vancouver doing well.

Some of Vancouver Island's best exhibitors are missing, among them Ian Douglas, who has taken a commission in the Canadian Navy; Mrs. George Weller, H. E. Burbridge and C. F. Aylard, who are preparing for the exhibition at Saanichton later this month.

Grand champion Jersey bull at the fair is Golden Fern's Sunny Boy, owned by Hugh Savage of Ladner, who also took reserve grand championship with Fawnsdale Xenia's Pride.

Fernside Holly's Dreamer was named junior reserve champion for Hugh Savage and J. Grauer & Sons' Lindell Princess Majesty was reserve senior champion.

Grauer's Lindell Standard's Gwynne won the female grand championship, with Savage's Heather Farm Sheila 2nd as reserve.

MAINTAINING WINS

Junior champion was J. Grover & Sons' Frasca Samatran Mallow, with Fawnsdale Fern's Ramona, owned by Savage, as junior reserve champion.

James Turner of Royal Oak cleaned up in the Shorthorns, with R. M. Ferguson of Westholme running second. Turner's Innisfael Ronald was named grand champion and his Royal Irish was made senior champion and reserve.

Royal Anna and Royal Princess, both from the Turner farm; were the senior and junior champions, respectively.

The Canadian Pacific entries from Alberta walked off with all the prizes in the Aberdeen Angus section, with Glenelg Pride 4th the grand champion bull and Glenelg Heather 2nd the grand champion cow.

In the Hereford class, the R. B. Brown Stock Ranch of Brown, Wash., made a clean sweep, Brown's Domino 198 being named grand champion with reserve grand champion going to Brumell Brown.

Ram Reeka, Chilliwack, took all awards in the Guernsey class, the grand champion bull being Brookbrook Prince, female champion going to Kate Pansy's Margaret.

Championship for Clydesdale stallion went to Craigie Supreme, owned by Charles C. Gordon of Carstairs, Alberta, this horse also winning the gold medal award of the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada. Gordon's Fanny of Fouliswood won the gold medal for the best mare in the show, taking the championship, James Turner's Canute of Foulis was named reserve champion stallion, the reserve champion mare being Jean of Boninbrae, owned by Claude L. Worthington of Chilliwack.

SHEEP

L. T. F. Shannon, Cloverdale, and McLughan Brothers of Milner won highest awards in the Oxford Downs class, J. A. Higginson and Son, Sardis, and R. B. Hunter, Winnipeg, were highest in the South Downs, the C.P.R. taking first place with their Hampshires.

SWINE

In the Tamworths C. F. Campbell, Daysland, Alberta, Otto Koetke, Holden, Alberta; George H. Bryant, Chilliwack, and C. Craff, Ferintosh, Alberta, were in the winning flight. R. A. Coleman, Ladner, and R. M. Ferguson, Westholme, shared honors in the Berkshire class, with Coleman, and R. M. Hardford, Steveston, winning in the Yorkshire section.

POULTRY

Joe Shackleton, Vancouver, with a Barred Rock Utility, won the champion bird award, Best female, a Black Polish, was entered by P. Sarsiat, Victoria. H. N. Dubberley, Vancouver, with a Black Rosecomb cockerel, had the best turkey in the show. A. Renfrew, Victoria, had the best homer pigeon and J. Cooper, Victoria, had the best fancy pigeon. The best turkey in the show was entered by Edward Glitz of "Woodside Farm," Sooke, while the best duck was entered by Bill Hill, Gordon Head.

Debt-free Money Might Save Wheat

The issuance of national debt-free money to purchase wheat from farmers and keep it in storage was advocated here today by J. H. Blackmore, M.P., leader of the Social Credit group in Parliament.

"Without such a policy we believe it is practically impossible to solve Canada's wheat problem," Mr. Blackmore said.

He claimed it was quite feasible to issue money in this way to deal with the wheat problem alone, even without the complete adoption of Social Credit principles for Canada's economic system.

Credits released to the farmers in this way would be spent on other goods and so long as production of these was maintained there would be no inflation.

"We feel it will be a national calamity if a definite and sufficient policy is not worked out to deal with the wheat problem," he said.

"Our plan would turn the wheat into a great national asset instead of a drawback as it would appear to be with foreign markets cuts off."

He said wheat could be stored for 10 to 15 years and the huge stocks that could be laid by would be of tremendous importance to the world when the war is over.

Mr. Blackmore said the best procedure for handling it would be for the Dominion to issue debt-free money and leave the purchasing of the wheat to provincial governments.

He said application of the debt-free money principle to Canada generally would strengthen its war effort greatly by increasing production.

The Social Credit leader is on the coast primarily for holiday purposes, though he has made a few public appearances. He left this afternoon for the mainland.

Mr. Blackmore said the national Social Credit party has no definite plans laid to "invade" B.C. in the next provincial election, but will leave it up to local supporters of the movement to invite national speakers to the scene if they wish.

Mr. Blackmore spoke last night at the First Baptist Church under the auspices of the New Democracy Movement. A. H. Jukes presided.

Lorne Russell, R.C.N., was given suspended sentence on a charge of stealing a car by Magistrate Henry C. Hall on consent of Attorney-General Gordon Wismer in City Police Court today.

Russell was found guilty on the charge yesterday but because of his clean record, the fact that he had been drinking before the crime and that he served with the R.C.N., Magistrate Hall agreed to a suspended sentence.

Seven taxpayers on the lower end of Carrick Street, between Richmond Road and Shelbourne Street, have petitioned the City Council for a surface drain on that section of the roadway, declaring such service is needed to eliminate hardship and conditions endangering health from floods in the winter time.

Although it appeared to many that it was extremely warm in the city today, the weatherman states that the temperature reached only 71 degrees at 1:30 today. Yesterday the temperature rose somewhat after 4:30 in the afternoon, caused by a warm breeze. The forecast for tomorrow is cooler weather.

Rev. H. M. Bolton and Rev. R. Lunde conducted the service on National Prayer Day at Sooke. The local Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and the Legion Defence Corps, under command of Capt. J. B. Gillott, attended. Wreaths were placed at the Cenotaph, where Capt. Gillott stood at the salute while the Legion Defence Corps dipped the colors.

The weekly luncheon meeting of Gyro Club was held yesterday in the Gyro Club dining room. There was no guest speaker and numerous stories about the life at the army camps for the nonpermanent militia, of which many Gyros are members, were told. It was announced that the dates for next year's Gyro convention have been tentatively set for June 26, 27 and 28.

Mr. Blackmore said the best procedure for handling it would be for the Dominion to issue debt-free money and leave the purchasing of the wheat to provincial governments.

He said application of the debt-free money principle to Canada generally would strengthen its war effort greatly by increasing production.

The Social Credit leader is on the coast primarily for holiday purposes, though he has made a few public appearances. He left this afternoon for the mainland.

Mr. Blackmore said the national Social Credit party has no definite plans laid to "invade" B.C. in the next provincial election, but will leave it up to local supporters of the movement to invite national speakers to the scene if they wish.

Mr. Blackmore spoke last night at the First Baptist Church under the auspices of the New Democracy Movement. A. H. Jukes presided.

Lorne Russell, R.C.N., was given suspended sentence on a charge of stealing a car by Magistrate Henry C. Hall on consent of Attorney-General Gordon Wismer in City Police Court today.

Russell was found guilty on the charge yesterday but because of his clean record, the fact that he had been drinking before the crime and that he served with the R.C.N., Magistrate Hall agreed to a suspended sentence.

City May Have CBC Station

Victoria may soon be the most western link in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's network of stations across the Dominion.

Word was received from Ottawa today the CBC believes Vancouver Island should have a better service as far as radio broadcasting is concerned. Rapid increase in population justified taking long delayed action.

Officials of the CBC are rumored to be planning to visit Victoria next week to survey radio station CFQT with a possibility of linking it with the CBC.

HUNDREDS APPLAUD KENNEY'S BAND

Once again Victoria fans of Mart Kenney and his band had the opportunity to dance and listen to his popular music last night in the Empress Hotel ballroom, when well over 600 dancers attended the performance of the orchestra, loudly applauding each number.

As usual, the band presented several novelty and dedication arrangements. The feature novelty tune was "Eleven More Months and Ten More Days." The ever-popular "There'll Always Be an England" was dedicated to the army, "Dip Your Wings" to the Air Force, and "We're in the King's Navy" to the lads who rule the seas.

Earlier in the evening, Mart Kenney and the members of the band went to Esquimalt Naval Barracks and played to 1,000 officers and men and their lady friends. The sailors thoroughly enjoyed the performance. The performance was given in the big drill hall and was arranged by Brian Burdon-Murphy. William Herbert, well-known CBC announcer, was master of ceremonies.

The Kinsmen Club of Victoria sponsored Kenney's appearance here. Hugh Francis was in charge of arrangements, assisted by George Fatt.

Court of Appeal Sitting Opens

With Hon. M. A. Macdonald sitting for the first time in Victoria as Chief Justice of British Columbia, the Court of Appeal today opened its sitting without delivery of judgments.

Applications for transfer of cases to the Vancouver sitting brought a sharp reminder from the Chief Justice such requests had to be based on strong grounds. All cases, he commented, might otherwise be transferred to Vancouver and the Victoria sittings would be abolished by indirection.

During the morning the court heard motions, including one by C. L. McAlpine, K.C., on behalf of C. Y. Robson, seeking leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada a Court of Appeal ruling in favor of E. Lauder. The case arises from a fatal automobile accident in Vancouver.

Mr. McAlpine pressed his plea for the right of appeal on an argument the existing decision left in doubt the question of contributory negligence in automobile mishaps. R. L. Maitland, K.C., appeared for Mr. Lauder. Judgment was reserved.

The court opened hearing of Paul Murphy's appeal on behalf of Harry Semenik, sentenced to two years by Magistrate H. S. Wood, Vancouver, on a charge of dealing with a forged withdrawal slip on a bank. Cedric Martin appears for the crown.

OBITUARY

TURNER—Funeral services for Miss Catherine MacLean Turner will be held at the Sands Mortuary Chapel tomorrow afternoon at 2, followed by interment at Colwood. Rev. James Hood will officiate.

BRIGDEN—Rev. A. Bischofberger conducted last rites at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel yesterday for Mrs. Elizabeth U. D. Brigden. Pallbearers: Thomas Brigden, Charles Brigden, J. Irving and J. Gibson. Interment at Colwood.

JONES—Rev. O. L. Jull conducted services at McCall Bros. Funeral Home yesterday afternoon for Danny Jones. Members of the junior baseball club of Victoria West School, of which the little boy had been a member, acted as flower-bearers. Interment was at Colwood.

WILKINSON—Many friends attended committal services for Rev. Robert Wilkinson, held at the family plot at Ross Bay yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. P. Hicks and Rev. William Allan officiated. Pallbearers: F. Knott, A. Parfitt, E. W. Whittington, A. W. Wright, S. McGowan and G. Jones. McCall Brothers' Funeral Co. were in charge of arrangements.

SEATTLE—W. D. Jones, 84, who arrived in Victoria in 1867 via ship and across the Isthmus of Panama from his birthplace in Ontario and came here two years later, died yesterday. One of the oldest graduates of the University of Washington, he had been in the shoe business here for many years.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Funeral services will be held here Friday for William Wright Dickinson, 66, retired agent of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and former employee of the White Pass and Yukon Railway. He died Monday. Mr. Dickinson was an agent for the P.G.E. at Pemberton and later at Squamish. He retired this year. Surviving are his widow in Vancouver, a son, Robert, in Victoria, and a daughter, Mrs. L. C. Pennel, Los Angeles.

Langley School Board Dismissed

A controversy raging all summer between the school board of Langley District and its teachers came to a climax today when the provincial government stepped in, dismissed the school board and appointed F. C. Calvert, inspector of schools, as official trustee for the district.

Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, announced the government, acting as the Council of Public Instruction, had taken the step. He termed the attitude of the Langley Board in defying a ruling of a board of reference as practically contempt of court.

"There was no option left but to dismiss the board," he said. "In times such as these we cannot have defiance of law and properly constituted authority."

Members of the board who were dismissed are: J. W. Berry, chairman; E. J. Bull, Mrs. A. Medd, Mrs. P. Y. Porter and Mrs. P. Rogers.

Dr. Weir noted that the amendment to the School Act giving the board of reference powers on teacher administration had been passed when Mr. Berry was a member of the Legislature.

The Langley controversy came to a head when the board ordered five teachers transferred from their present posts. The teachers appealed and were upheld by a Board of Reference, but in face of this decision the board insisted on the transfer.

Strict Rationing

Germans Report Food Shortage In French Area

By ROY P. POWTER

PARIS (via Berlin, Delayed) (AP)—A shortage of certain foodstuffs in occupied France which can be met only by strict rationing, officials of the agricultural section of the German military administration.

They said the prospective shortage resulted directly from military operations.

These authorities claimed German occupation forces were not sending large quantities of food from France into Germany. Wheat flour is being exported into the Reich from France, they asserted, but only in return for rye flour, from which German army bread is made.

The primary reason for the prospective shortage, German officials alleged, was the removal by the French government of between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 inhabitants from departments in northern France when the war started. Included in this number were between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 agricultural workers.

It was authoritatively stated in Allied high command circles when the Battle of France started that German panzer divisions drove French refugees ahead of them to hamper movements of Allied troops seeking to counterattack and that they machine gunned them on the roads and in the fields from aircraft.

PLANTING, HARVESTING IGNORED

This exodus, Germans said, had two effects. First, the crops which would have been planted in early May were forgotten after the first German offensive began May 10. Second, crops which, like the first cutting of hay, would have been harvested in the same period, were left standing in the fields.

Authoritative German sources said the crop of sugar beets would be only 20 and 25 per cent of normal in the northern region, where 95 per cent of all French sugar beet growing is concentrated.

PUT AT 70 PER CENT

The grain harvest in the occupied zone, they predicted, would be about 70 per cent of normal, but they said, it would be sufficient with existing stocks to carry over for 1941.

The hay crop was said to be 50 per cent of normal at the end of May, when removal of the population was at its height. There still was possible two additional cuttings, after the meagre first one, for clover, hay and alfalfa. The most urgent rationing needs concern meat and fat, German sources said. One reason given was that cattle herds in northern France were abandoned by fleeing populations, resulting in considerable losses of livestock. Steps already have been taken to boost wheat production in 1941 through an increase in the planted acreage.

URGES CITIZENS TO ATTEND FAIR

Mayor Andrew McGavin today reminded Victorians generally that tomorrow would be celebrated at the Fall Fair as Citizens' Day. He urged the public to attend the exhibition, take an interest in the various displays on show in the different competitive and noncompetitive sections, and voice the hope attendance records set up at previous fairs would be broken this year.

URGES U.S. CEASE PRETENCE POLICY

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—William S. Culbertson, one-time United States Ambassador to Chile, called today for an end to "pretense and hypocrisy" in extending aid to Britain and declared that: "Perhaps we should in a world of aggression and undeclared war adopt an opportunity policy which would allow us to do anything that we wish to accomplish our objective."

But, he said in a speech prepared at the American Bar Association's annual convention here, "I don't want it done under the fiction of a tortured law of neutrality. . . . If one law or treaty can be explained away for a good cause, another law or treaty can be explained away for a bad cause."

In his discussion of international law, the Franklin County, Pa., attorney said he was "not presenting an argument against the barter of the 50 destroyers for the leases of bases in British territory. . . . I realize that this seems to be justified as a measure of self-defence. It is in line with our policy to strengthen the British buffer between us and the force-politics of Germany. . . . I want to save the British Empire, but I want to save law, too."

British Casualties

LONDON (CP)—The 39th casualty list of the War Office contains the names of 450 officers and men, comprising 120 killed, 16 dead of wounds, 273 wounded, 7 taken prisoners, 28 previously reported missing now known to be prisoners and 6 previously missing now reported safe.

Cobble-Hill Stays In Library District

Cobble Hill Rural School area has voted to remain in the Vancouver Island Union Library district, the Provincial Secretary's department reported today. A vote was taken last week. Under the regulations of the library scheme 10 per cent of the taxpayers may petition for a vote on withdrawal.

Hunter Wounds Girl

NANAIMO—John Reinhard of Northford reported to police yesterday—he had accidentally wounded a girl, Geraldine Brown, while out hunting. Geraldine and her young sister had accompanied their father, Godfrey Brown, and Mr. Reinhard on a hunting trip. Mr. Brown had told the girls to sit in the car while the hunting was in progress. Instead, states Mr. Reinhard, they climbed a

Spend $700,000,000 On 7 Battleships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States navy reaffirmed its faith in the battleship as the backbone of sea power today by stalling $700,000,000 of its present and prospective building money on seven of the floating fortresses.

Despite contentions of some aviation enthusiasts that air power has made the super dreadnought obsolete, navy officials set aside this big sum for capital ships in a record $3,861,053,312 contract letting.

The seven battleships will be heavily-armed, long-range vessels of 45,000 tons or more.

Reports circulated in the capital, moreover, that three of them would be of 53,000 tons, larger than any other power is known to be building, but this could not be confirmed.

The navy previously had ordered four such superhips, and officials said two of these already were under construction. A number of 35,000-tonners are much farther along toward completion.

FIVE CLASSES

Completion in five to seven years of the 201-ship navy expansion program just announced will give the United States a two-ocean navy of 688 war vessels.

A breakdown of the present and future fleets is given in the following table:

Type	Build	Building	Total
Battleships	15	17	32
Aircraft carriers	6	12	18
Cruisers	37	48	85
Destroyers	197	171	368
Submarines	103	82	185
Total	358	330	688

In addition to the 50 over-age destroyers recently traded to Great Britain, not included in the above table, 46 old destroyers have been ordered converted to other types of vessels.

Japanese Volcano Destroys Farms

KUMAMOTO, Japan (AP)—An eruption of Mount Aso, act's volcano in Kyushu, southern Japan, was reported today to have destroyed farms and threatened 13 nearby villages.

No information was available immediately whether the eruption had caused any casualties.

Mount Aso, 5,545 feet high, has a crater 15 miles across and 2,000 feet deep—the largest in the world.

Eruptions of the volcano have been recorded since earliest Japanese history. One in 1844 ejected clouds of black ash and dust which the wind carried as far as Fumamoto, 25 miles to the southeast. There were other large disturbances in 1889 and 1894.

RIO THEATRE

With well over 100 violins on the set and available, a single flutist stopped production for nearly an hour on Samuel Goldwyn's "They Shall Have Music," which stars Jascha Heifetz, world-renowned violinist, and is today at the Rio Theatre.

While Andrea Leeds and Joel McCrea cooled their heels in waiting, frantic prop men tried to locate a $3,500 instrument.

Horrid! Ised the valuable violin be used by mistake as one of those to be deliberately smashed, Paul Willeksa, head propmaker and creator of the fiddles, was called in.

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

The police system of Germany was not so perfect as some people thought, Mr. Marks continued. Betrayal and corruption among the police was bad.

German people were behind Hitler, he said. The more victories Hitler made, the more loyal to him the people became.

Mr. Marks was optimistic about the outcome of the present war. "It is not because of sentiment," he said. "Hitlerism will soon be rooted up. British people today are united as never before and are determined at all costs to destroy and defeat that cursed political system."

tree. Mr. Reinhard fired at a goose flying high and one pellet entered the right arm, the left arm and one the thigh of Geraldine perched on a tree branch. A doctor was summoned and the pellets were removed.

"PRIVATE AFFAIRS" DOMINION FILM

Universal's "Private Affairs," described as a modern comedy with a background of Boston's tradition-filled Back Bay, brings Nancy Kelly, Robert Cummings, Hugh Herbert and Roland Young to the screen of the Dominion Theatre today.

Robert Cummings plays the role of the young man whom Nancy loves. Hugh Herbert appears in a typically hilarious role that represents a variety of characters from a breezy cab driver to a Scotch nobleman. The irascible father of Young and the grandfather of Nancy is played by Montagu Love. The supporting cast includes such well-known performers as G. P. Huntley Jr., Dick Purcell, Jonathan Hale, Mary Forbes and Granville Bates.

Levey's first Mayfair Production for Universal release, the new picture has a cast of nine principals, scores of dancing beauties and thousands of extras.

Music by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart is sung by Allan Jones, noted tenor star; Rosemary Lane of the famous Lane sisters; Martha Raye, the singing comedienne, and Joe Penner, who takes part in two novelty tunes.

ATLAS THEATRE

A new mirthful mystery picture featuring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard is now at the Atlas Theatre. It is titled "The Ghost Breakers," which, for your information, are people who rid haunted houses of these pests. The co-stars had plenty to do in this respect.

George Marshall, the director, made it with a smile and goose-pimples. One moment you're silently holding your breath, not knowing what will happen next, when, without warning, Bob Hope or his colored servant, Willie Best, makes a remark that convulses the audience.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Frank Capra's stirring "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," with Jean Arthur and James Stewart co-starring, is now at the Oak Bay Theatre. Enthralling story of a homespun youth suddenly appointed senator, the new Columbia film has been hailed wherever it has played as Capra's greatest screen triumph.

PLAZA THEATRE

George Formby's new Ealing production, "It's in the Air," is at the Plaza Theatre. The background for his comic thrills is the Royal Air Force, although his work is not entirely confined to the air. He has some very

$5,000,000 Shipyard On Puget Sound

SEATTLE (AP)—A shipyard estimated to cost $5,000,000 will rise where 100 shanty dwellers now squat on Harbor Island, in Elliott Bay, to build 20 destroyers for the expanding United States navy.

Confirmation of a $137,500,000 award for construction of the destroyers came after President Roosevelt signed the $5,251,486, 392 appropriation bill. The award was to the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corporation, a subsidiary of the Todd Shipbuilding and Drydock Company of New York and Seattle.

The bill also provided for construction of six new destroyers at a cost of $42,000,000 at the Puget Sound navy yard, Bremerton. The order is expected to require increased personnel at Bremerton, but no further enlargement of the yard.

R. J. Lamont, president of the Seattle-Tacoma Corporation, said the shipyard expansion here would involve construction of five ways and scores of sheds and buildings.

Rep. Warren Magnuson reported the Tacoma plant of the corporation would continue to make Maritime Commission cargo vessels. It has launched one of them and will build nine in all.

B.C. PLANTS TO BE KEPT BUSY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two large government orders for Vancouver plants will be let within two weeks, it was disclosed by Col. W. C. Woodward, executive assistant to the Minister of Munitions and Supply on arrival here from Ottawa.

Col. Woodward said one order would be for $600,000 in machine tool lathes to be made here. The other would be for shells, to be turned out at the rate of 100,000 a month.

Regarding shipbuilding on the British Columbia coast, Col. Woodward said he was unable to speak for the government on that matter, but he believed it was the intention of the government to keep the shipyards full.

Amazing Finish

JACKSON, Ga. (AP)—George Guy of Greenville, S.C., whirled his tiny outboard craft into the last turn of the final lap of the Class C races on Jackson Lake when the boat hit a wave and turned completely over. Guy was tossed five or six feet in the air. The boat righted itself and Guy fell back into it in a correct position.

Stunned and startled, but driving by instinct, the South Carolinian pulled the machine back into the course, raced his motor and finished second in the race.

SILBAK PRODUCTION
Silbak Premier Mines, Premier, B.C., reported today August production totalled $131,017 from 14,678 tons of ore milled. Recovery for the first eight months of 1940 was $958,324 compared with $1,110,981 for the first eight months of 1939.

Merchant Losses 2,771,333 Tons

LONDON (CP)—The Germans and Italians destroyed 84,575 tons of British and neutral merchant shipping in the week ended September 1, the British Admiralty reported today, bringing the total for the first year of the war to 2,771,333 tons.

The year's losses were listed as: British, 1,539,196 tons; Allies, 462,924 tons; neutrals, 769,213 tons.

The Admiralty said German and Italian shipping losses from the start of the war to September 9 totalled 1,236,000 tons.

The losses for the last week reported—one British, five Allied and four neutral ships—were said to be in excess of the average weekly loss since the war began, but below the average weekly loss since May 27, when the fighting was intensified.

The high tonnage of losses for the week was attributed by the Admiralty to "ideal weather for submarine attack."

Despite the losses, the Admiralty declared, the British merchant fleet now in commission is greater than at the outset of the war.

The report added that, in addition to German and Italian losses inflicted the Allies during the year sank 33,000 tons of shipping which had been neutral but was seized or brought under control of Italy or Germany.

Railways Vital To Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—Robert S. Henry of Washington, assistant president of the Association of American Railroads, today declared railroads are as important to the defence of the North American continent as are the armed forces of Canada and the United States.

In an address before the organization's telegraph and telephone section, which opened its annual convention today, Mr. Henry said "the rail carriers are one vital element of the security of both countries, which has long been unified."

There is no "dividing line" in operations of the railroads of Canada and the United States, he continued.

"The railroads are a unit in their operations and traffic. Their service is continuous. Their equipment and methods are standardized and interchangeable. A freight car may be loaded at any station in the 48 states of the union or the nine provinces of the Dominion for movement through an uninterrupted service to any other station in either of the two countries. The freight moves on joint through rates and under other co-operation joint arrangements."

Railroads of the two nations also "are equal to the demands which may be called upon to meet," said Mr. Henry.

"In Canada the railroads have proved their ability to handle both the needs of commerce and the needs of defence in the year past."

Mr. Henry contended the problem of the American and Canadian railroads is not one of taking care of the load, but rather of getting the volume of business that is needed to enable them to operate their plants at full efficiency, and so to keep down costs and charges.

"To solve that problem," he said, "we need only that for which we are asking in the United States—equality with other forms of transportation in regulation, in taxation, in self-support."

Strike May Spread

SEATTLE (AP)—While reports circulated on the waterfront that the strike might spread to Portland, a spokesman for the International Longshoremen's Association said today its members would immediately reopen three strike-bound Puget Sound ports if the National Labor Relations Board would reopen the bargaining agency case.

American Federation of Labor stevedores have been on strike in Tacoma, Port Angeles and Anacortes for 11 days in protest against a 1938 Labor Board ruling giving the Congress of Industrial Organizations jurisdiction over longshoremen in all west coast ports. The A.F.L. union controls only the three ports on Puget Sound.

Around the Docks LINER COMPLETES MAIDEN VOYAGE

Completing her maiden voyage from Japan, Ms. Yawata Maru of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha passed through quarantine about midnight, right on schedule, passing up to Vancouver at 1:30 this morning.

The Yawata Maru, of 17,200 tons, sister ship of the Nitta Maru, in service, and the Kasuga Maru, shortly to be commissioned, will later ply between Yokohama and San Francisco.

On her outbound trip, sailing from Vancouver September 21, the Yawata Maru will carry British Columbia passengers to Honolulu, en route to Japan.

The Yawata Maru this morning brought in a capacity list of passengers, 64 being routed to Vancouver and 157 destined for Seattle. The British Columbia and overland cargo totaled 1,130 tons. William Harold, Great Northern city ticket agent, boarded the liner at quarantine and proceeded with her to Vancouver.

Ship Names Reappear

Names of British merchantmen, erased at the beginning of the war, are reappearing on the bows of vessels plying in the North Pacific trade. This is believed to mean that the submarine menace, with the adoption of the convoy system, is now pretty well under control.

Tug Overhauled

Island Tug and Barge Company's tugboat Burrard Chief has left the marine ways at the Victoria Machinery Depot after overhaul and has returned to service.

Olympic Withdrawn

Black Ball Ferry Lines withdrew Ss. Olympic from the Port Angeles-Victoria run yesterday, leaving Ss. Iroquois to maintain connections with Port Angeles and Seattle, with departure from Victoria at 9:15 a.m. daily.

A daily ferry service is now being run between Sidney and Anacortes, leaving Sidney at 2 p.m.

PREMIER LEADER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Small gains outnumbered losses during fairly active trading on the forenoon session of Vancouver Stock Exchange today. Transactions totaled 45,687 shares.

Premier Border led the goods with a turnover of 20,000 shares and gained a fraction at 1 1/4. Barlone at 10:00 was up 10 from yesterday's losing bid and Gold Belt at 23 and Sheep Creek at 98, both advanced 3. Big Missouri slipped a fraction to 5 while Privateer remained unchanged at 43.

Home Oil lost 2 to 1.85 and A.P. Consolidated was unchanged at 11. Other oils and base metals were inactive.

Railroads of the two nations also "are equal to the demands which may be called upon to meet," said Mr. Henry.

"In Canada the railroads have proved their ability to handle both the needs of commerce and the needs of defence in the year past."

Mr. Henry contended the problem of the American and Canadian railroads is not one of taking care of the load, but rather of getting the volume of business that is needed to enable them to operate their plants at full efficiency, and so to keep down costs and charges.

"To solve that problem," he said, "we need only that for which we are asking in the United States—equality with other forms of transportation in regulation, in taxation, in self-support."

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK (CP)—Pound Sterling and Canadian dollar held unchanged in terms of United States funds in afternoon foreign exchange dealings today.

The pound was quoted at $4.04, and the dollar at a discount of 13 1/2 cents. (Ottawa Foreign Exchange Control Board rate 9.09 to 9.91 per cent discount.)

Calgary Oils

CALGARY (CP)—Only one stock was traded on Calgary Stock Exchange today. Transfers, 1,000 shares.

Arrow at 26 1/2, with a turnover of 1,000 shares, was unchanged from previous close.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Export business in Canadian wheat and flour totalling more than 2,000,000 bushels for shipment to the United Kingdom was confirmed on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, but had no reaction on wheat prices, which closed at fixed minimum levels of 73 1/2 cents a bushel for the October future and 74 1/2 cents for December.

The business was about evenly divided between the two commodities, and represented the first important export business in flour in more than a month.

Interest was shown in all grades of cash wheat and a fair amount of No. 2 northern changed hands. Trades in other grades were limited to minor lots and odd cars.

Mills and exporters supported oats in the coast grain pit, crushers took flax and houses with southern connections bought rye against sales at Chicago. Barley trade consisted mainly of routine spreading.

Feeble Rallying Power

NEW YORK (AP)—Rallying tendencies, while rather feeble, kept the stock market today and enabled scattered favorites to erase portions of yesterday's decline.

Many early gains were cut or canceled on the session proceeding and closing prices were somewhat mixed.

Steels had the benefit of U.S. Steel's summary, revealing August shipments of the corporation climbed to 1,455,604 net tons from 1,296,887 in July and were the highest since April, 1937. August shipments last year amounted to 885,636 tons.

Among shares giving a relatively good account of themselves were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, United Aircraft, Boeing and Lockheed.

Lagging were Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Union Carbide, North American and Johns-Manville.

Bonds improved and commodities steadied.

Canadian issues were easy. Dome Mines and Lake Shore Mines dipped fractions and, in the bond market, Canada 4s lost 1/2 point, Canadian Pacific and Distillers made small gains.
